A few notes on the life of a very busy tooter

Long ago during the fourth grade, Gretchen Helbig began studying viola.

But then she quit. "I just despised viola," said Gretchen. "I don't even know why I played."

Some time passed and Gretchen latched onto the dormant cornet once practiced by her older brother, Bill. She learned to toot reveille, the military eyelid peeler.

But then she quit. "I was the only girl in fifth grade trumpet," said Gretchen. "I really felt like a fool."

Next, she moved over to a piano bench, sat down and remained content to prod the little black and white keys for one and one-half years.

BUT THEN SHE quit. "I wish I never had now," said Gretchen when we talked Tuesday afternoon at her home in Elk Grove. "Everything is based on the piano."

You might well imagine how Gretchen's father, Curt Helbig, displayed some suspicion when she enrolled in seventh grade, pointed at a clarinet and said, "I want one."

Curt Helbig relented, however, and one mornng Gretchen found a $20 plastic clarinet at home. It was an "El Cheapo" brand, as Gretchen remembers.

That was nearly six years ago. Gretchen will be graduated from Elk Grove High School this spring. She played three years in the Grenadier symphony band.

And you can bet that Gretchen will not carry the "El Cheapo" clarinet when she tours Europe this summer as B-flat soloist for the United States Collegiate Wind Band, directed by Al G. Wright of Purdue University.

IT'S A MOST SELECT group of 100 collegiate and high school musicians. They'll perform at the Lincoln and Rockefeller Centers in New York City during late July.

Then the group launches a three-week musical trek through England, France, Germany, Austria, Italy, Holland and Switzerland.

The road has been longer for Gretchen than you might know.Money nearly prevented her from being included on the tour. The problem extends well past the $997 she needed for her summer trip.

"Our financial situation was OK until June last year," said Gretchen. Major medical expenses

PIONEER MISS, Stephanie Galfano, prepares a costume for Wilson School's musical "Dust in the Sky" to be presented at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the school, 15 E. Palatine Rd. The play has a pioneer theme because Wilson is the pioneer school in Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

Dist. 59 unit bid runs into parents' flak

by JUDY JOBBITT

Petitions are being circulated in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 by parents from the Juliette Low School area calling for the Cook County schools superintendent to reject petitions filed Monday for a unit school district election.

A committee of 10 residents Monday took the first step in the legal process necessary to get the issue of forming a Dist. 59 unit district before the voters by filing petitions with Richard Martwick, county schools superintendent.

Joanne Lewis, Lynn Clapper and Nancy Clark, parents from Juliette Low, 1530 S. Highland Ave., decided to circulate the petition against the unit district movement Wednesday after learning that the request for an election had been made.

MRS. LEWIS, 1202 W. Haven, Arlington Heights, said the three women attended Monday night's school board meeting and were led to believe that the unit district petitions had not been filed.

"We felt we had been somewhat misled as to the progress of the committee of 10," she said.

Mrs. Clapper, 1523 Kaspar, Arlington Heights, said "There was a misrepresentation of the facts. As I understood it (Monday night), the petition at that point had not been filed. I was surprised it had been filed prior to hiring the lawyer Monday night."

Dist. 59 board members Monday hired the legal firm of Reid, Ochsenschlager, Murphy and Hupp of Aurora to advise them on pursuing the unit district movement. The firm helped prepare the petition which was circulated last weekend. The law firm did not charge for its services given prior to Monday night, a spokesman said.

THE JULIETTE LOW parents' petition requests Martwick to reject the committee of 10's petition and states four reasons:

- The bias of the Illinois School Consultant's report which was prepared for the unit district study committee and recommended the Dist. 59 unit district be formed;
- The lack of proven financial or educational benefits for the unit district;
- The manner in which the committee prepared the petition asking for an election. Mrs. Lewis said they object to the committee of 10 using the legal firm hired by the school board Monday night prior to that action;
- The refusal of the unit district study committee to allow Dist. 214 officials to present materials at the meetings.

The parents plan to circulate the petitions throughout the Dist. 59 area to gain support outside their school area. "We don't feel it is just a concern of the parents in the Juliette Low School area," said Mrs. Lewis.

The group also plans to present the petitions to the Dist. 59 board at the Monday board meeting.

The proposed unit district would include Forest View and Elk Grove high schools in addition to the current Dist. 59 schools. It would place elementary and high schools under one administration and school board. Currently Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary districts in Dist. 214.

Students currently attending Rolling Meadows High School, primarily from the Juliette Low area, who live in the Dist. 59 area would transfer to Forest View unless special provisions could be made with Dist. 214.

Hanson target of police suit threat

by JOE SWICKARD

Three members of the Arlington Heights Police Dept. have threatened to sue Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson to force their promotions, Hanson said Thursday.

The three, Lt. LeRoy Weith, Sgt. Norman Busse and Patrolman Ronald Van Raalte, contend the department vacancies exist because of recent resignations. They say the positions have been included in the current municipal budget.

Hanson said he is not promoting the men pending the selection of a new police chief to replace L. W. Calderwood, who will retire July 30. Hanson said the new chief should be provided that "latitude."

HE SAID HE had a meeting with the three policemen Thursday during which "they indicated court action could be taken" to bring about the promotions. He said the men had a "vested interest" and a "one-track mind" in the discussions.

When asked if he might reconsider his refusal to promote the men now, Hanson said, "Absolutely not."

Hanson said that while money has been appropriated for the positions, he is not bound to spend it.

Van Raallte said of the threatened court action, "I won't know anything until Monday or Tuesday. Until then, I don't have any comment."

The other policemen involved were unavailable for comment on the situation.

CALDERWOOD DECLINED to comment directly on the potential confrontation between the three policemen and the village manager.

"I have great respect for the men of this department. And I have great respect for the village manager, too," he said.

The vacancies were created following the recent resignation of two police captains. One of the captain's vacancies was filled two weeks ago by the promotion of then-Lt. Paul Buckholz.

If past procedures are followed, Weith would be promoted to fill the remaining captain's position which would make Busse eligible to move into the lieutenant's position. Van Raallte would then advance into the sergeant's rank.

The three all hold the first position on eligibility lists for promotions

U.S. Steel increases prices 6%

by SCOTT MacLEOD

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — United States Steel Corp., the nation's largest producer, Thursday announced 6 per cent price increases on steel products that will mean higher consumer costs for such items as automobiles, kitchen appliances and TV sets.

Inland Steel, Armco and Wheeling-Pittsburgh also raised prices an average of 6 per cent and there were indications another round of increases would come later, including a comment from an Armco official that "further hikes will be needed later this year."

When one steel company raises prices, others usually follow suit.

There was no immediate reaction from the White House on the latest increases.

U.S. Steel said its increases would take effect June 14 for sheet and strip products. Sheet steel is used in auto and appliance making and, as one steel company official said, "just about everything." Strip is a specialty steel used in such items as color television sets.

A spokesman for U.S. Steel, which raised its prices 3.8 per cent last August, said the latest increase was due to the "rising cost of just about everything." He cited higher costs for goods and services, specifically employment, raw materials, energy and transportation.

Howard Hughes' will? It's anyone's guess

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A smudged, yellowing handwritten document purporting to be the will of billionaire Howard R. Hughes, turned up mysteriously Thursday and was presented in court by officials of the Mormon Church.

A handwriting expert said the will "has a good chance" of being authentic, but a top Hughes official said uncharacteristic references in the will make him think it is a hoax.

The purported will, not yet admitted to probate in Clark County, left one-fourth of the nearly $2-billion Hughes estate to a Florida medical research institute and the remainder to universities, his two former wives and various associates.

AN EXECUTIVE of the Summa Corp., the holding company for Hughes' personal interests, strongly doubted the purported will was valid. He pointed to numerous misspelled words such as "devided" for "divided" and "cildren" for "children."

A reference in the document was made to Hughes' celebrated plywood flying boat as the "Spruce Goose" a term the spokesman said Hughes despised and never would have used.

And there was a bequest — worth millions if the will is eventually ruled authentic — to a service station operator, Melvin Dummar, who once gave a lift on a desert highway to a man who said he was Hughes. Dummar thought the man "was a bum" but loaned him money anyway.

Probate Judge Russell Waite said he could not schedule a hearing on the authenticity of the handwriting for at least 10 days because of the press of other matters.

MORMON OFFICIALS who presented the document to the court, however, said, "Whether or not the will is the actual will of Mr. Hughes or is a hoax, we do not know."

Hughes died April 5 while on an emergency medical flight to Houston, Tex., from Acapulco, Mexico, where he had been living for several months.

An extensive search for a will had been under way since his death. Summa Corp. even took out advertisements in newspapers in hopes of turning up the document.

The Mormon Church said the document, which was dated March 19, 1960, was in an envelope found on a desk Tuesday afternoon by an employe of the church's headquarters in Salt Lake City,Utah.

INSIDE THE yellowed envelope was a handwritten statement in ink describing the statement as "Last will and testament" of Howard R. Hughes.

It said that "after my death my estate is to be divided as follows" and then listed 10 bequests.

One-fourth of his huge estate was left to the Hughes Medical Institute of Miami, Fla., and another eighth was to be divided among the University of Texas, Rice University of Houston, The University of Nevada and the University of California.

One-sixteenth was left to the Mormon Church and another one-sixteenth was to be divided between Hughes' first wife, Ella Rice of Houston and his second wife, actress Jean Peters who remarried after she divorced Hughes.

Other one-sixteenth shares were to be used to establish a home for orphan children and for use as a school scholarship fund for the entire country.

Also listed to receive one-sixteenth shares were the Boy Scouts of America, William R. Loomis of Houston, Melvin DuMar, Gabbs, Nev., and "my personal aides at the time of my death."

Lommis apparently was a misspelling of his Houston cousin.

In Washington, a spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service said it eventually will examine the will "and do whatever is necessary to protect the interests of the government."

MSD turns thumbs down on Alter's disclosure bid

by WANDALYN RICE

The Metropolitan Sanitary District Board of Commissioners Thursday defeated an effort by Comr. Joanne Alter to require board discussion about asking for financial disclosures by board members and staff.

The board voted 7-2, with only Comr. Joan Anderson siding with Mrs. Alter, to defeat a move to call a meeting of the board's rules committee to discuss the disclosure proposal.

Mrs. Alters' disclosure proposal was first presented to the board in February and was referred at that time by a 7-2 vote to the rules committee, which has not met since then.

COMR. JOHN ROGERS, chairman of the rules committee, said he had not had the opportunity to call a meeting on the issue, but he said, "I'm sure it will be considered in due time."

Mrs. Alter said she does not understand the board's refusal to discuss the issue. She said, "We are being pictured as fools and as irresponsible commissioners and it's time we discussed this."

A number of MSD officials have been under investigation by a federal grand jury for more than a year in an alleged bribery scheme involving a multi million-dollar sludge hauling contract which was awarded in 1971 to Ingram Barge Co. Recent reports have indicated that indictments of several MSD commissioners and present and former state legislators in the investigation are imminent.

When she proposed the financial disclosure policy in February, Mrs. Alter told commissioners it would help "restore public trust" in the MSD, which had been eroded by the federal investigation.

EARLIER IN the meeting, Commission Pres. Nicholas Melas ruled Mrs. Alter out of order when she attempted to introduce a motion to require an audit of Ingram's contracts with the MSD.

Mrs. Alter said she wanted the audit because she had heard reports that subsidiaries of Ingram have performed work for the MSD that has never been publicly reported.

Melas said the audit request was out of order because the MSD currently is suing Ingram for repayment of certain contracts.

He said an audit of the company may be part of the lawsuit and that the board should not get involved in it at this time.

Fireman innocent in ambulance crash

A Schaumburg firefighter was found innocent Thursday in connection with an auto-ambulance collision Jan. 23 that killed a 69-year-old Roselle man. Charges of disobeying a traffic signal and failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident against Martin J. Coniglio Jr., were dropped in the Elk Grove Village branch of Cook County Circuit Court. Coniglio, 32, was driving the ambulance when it collided with a car at Meacham and Nerge roads. The driver of the car, Walter Wisnewski, was killed, and his wife, Frances was injured.

Groups ready abortion protest

An anti-abortion demonstration is being planned for Mother's Day, May 9 at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, to protest the hospital's decision this week to allow abortions to be performed there in the first three months of pregnancy. Right to Life, Illinois Citizens Concerned for Life, Christians United for Life and Infant are among the groups planning to participate in the protest, said Barbara Menes, chairman of the local Right to Life organization. "We chose Mother's Day because of its significance to mothers who have borne children, and because of those women who will go into the hospital as mothers but won't be when they come out," Mrs. Menes said.

Cop faces dismissal

A public hearing of the Schaumburg police and fire commission is scheduled Saturday for consideration of the dismissal of a village patrolman who last month was charged in connection with a theft scheme. Police Chief Martin Conroy said he has filed 20 departmental charges aainst Patrolman James Regan, 31, after Regan was linked by police to the theft of an air conditioner and a lawnmower from a Schaumburg apartment complex. Regan had been on disability leave from the department following an on-duty accident last July. Regan faces two criminal charges of theft in the case, and is scheduled to appear in court Monday to answer the charges.

Crime commission offical indicted

The vice president of the Cook County Criminal Justice Commission was indicted with three other men Thurday on federal mail fraud charges.

Fred M. Dumke, who has been mayor of suburban Oak Lawn since 1961 and who also is a former president of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, was charged with eight counts of mail fraud for allegedly accepting property in Hickory Hills after voting to approve controversial rezoning for an Oak Lawn discount store in 1971.

Also indicted were Gerhardt J. Gliege, former Oak Lawn village attorney and businessmen Michael O'Malley and Wayne Betka.

THE INDICTMENT STATES that Dumke broke a tie vote in the Oak Lawn village council Aug. 2, 1971 which permitted rezoning of property at 95th Street and Crawford Avenue. A Venture department store was built on the property.

May Department Store officials, who operate Venture stores, cooperated with the federal grand jury that investigated the zoning payoff, federal officials said.

Dumke obtained the Hickory Hills property after the zoning vote for about $50,000, when the land's market value was $125,000, according to the indictment.

O'Malley purchased the property in 1968 for $83,000 and sold it to Dumke for $50,000. Dumke later sold the property, through O'Malley and Betka, for $110,000. Gliege was attorney for the three.

The three could receive a maximum sentence of 40 years in prison and $8,000 in fines if convicted.

Humphrey to serve if called; won't run

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hubert Humphrey, tears welling in his eyes, said Thursday he will not actively campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination but would accept a draft at the national convention in July.

The announcement virtually ended any lingering hope Humphrey might have to win the nation's highest office and removed the biggest obstacle to Jimmy Carter's drive for the nomination.

With his wife, Muriel, and Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., at his side, the veteran Minnesota senator and former vice president said he reached the decision not to run after 36 hours of political strategy sessions, consultation with his family and intense pressure from friends and party regulars around the country to make one more campaign.

"I shall not enter the New Jersey primary nor shall I authorize any committee or committees to solicit funds, organize or work on my behalf," Humphrey said. "I intend to run for reelection to the Senate from Minnesota."

HE SAID HE will continue to speak out on issues "as a citizen, a senator and a noncandidate" and expects to "actively participate" in the Democrats' nominating convention in New York City.

"If my party should need me or perchance — although I think it highly unlikely — should nominate me, I would be fully ready to serve," he said.

During a question and answer session, he told reporters, "I shall not seek it (the nomination), search for it, scramble for it, but I'm around."

The crowd of supporters and onlookers, estimated by Capitol Police as about 1,200 strong, broke into laughter and applause.

THE DECISION was one of political reality, said Humphrey who had sought the Democratic nomination in 1960, 1968 and 1972. He won the nomination in 1968 only to lose to Richard M. Nixon.

"I've been down this road before and I know what it takes," he said. "It takes time, it takes organization, it takes planning, it takes public relations . . . and frankly we do not have the mint."

Humphrey, who made his announcement in a Capitol Hill caucus room used in the past to launch other presidential campaigns, has been regarded by many as the potential nominee who could derail Carter's bid for the presidency.

He said fear of losing the June 8 New Jersey primary — the only one where the filing deadline had not passed — was not a factor. "I really thought I could win New Jersey," he said.

But there simply was not enough time to organize an effective campaign, said Humphrey, and, "One thing I don't need at this late stage in my life is to be ridiculous."

Mrs. Humphrey actually wanted him to run, he said, as did their children, said Humphrey, who will be 65 next month.

ASKED HOW he would assess his chance of ever becoming president, Humphrey replied, "Not very well."

His decision is consistent with his earlier statements that he would not enter any primaries but would accept a convention draft. Humphrey was reported to be worried that he would be considered "playing a game" if he reversed field and ran in New Jersey.

Humphrey quits 'showdown poker' game

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK
News Analysis

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hubert Humphrey doesn't play showdown poker anymore.

The Minnesota senator, now regarded by many as the only man with a chance to halt Jimmy Carter's run toward the Democratic presidential nomination, Thursday declined to become an active candidate.

Instead, he will continue to wait for a deadlock to develop at the national convention in July — then will take the nomination if the party offers it.

In announcing his decision to pass up the last available primary — New Jersey, June 8 — and to forbid his supporters to raise funds and organize a campaign in his name, Humphrey in effect took the last card of the hand face down, smiled at the other players and checked his bet.

It was the kind of challenge a younger Hubert Humphrey might have accepted with gusto. He fought John Kennedy with all he had in 1960 and he went late but eager into the 1968 and 1972 nomination contests. When he showed up in the cavernous Senate Caucus Room Thursday, many friends and enemies alike expected him to charge "once more into the breach."

Not so. For once Hubert passed up a political brawl. He said if the Democrats want Humphrey this year, it will have to come to him. In this poker game, Humphrey won't show his hand until he sees what the other players have.

He declined to endorse any of the remaining candidates but urged those in the race not to drop out. He said Carter "certainly has a leg up" but he is "still doubtful" Carter could win nomination on the first ballot.

However, he said, by winning seven of nine primaries Carter has either the presidential or vice presidential slot "in focus."

"I think that Mr. Carter will have a very healthy batch of votes when he goes to the convention," Humphrey said, and "I hope I'll hear a lot more from Mr. Carter on where he stands on the issues, and I'm going to help educate him."

One of the reasons "I was tempted to enter the primaries," Humphrey said was to discuss the issues.

Asked whether Carter could unite the party, Humphrey replied: "'ll try to help. I think that's my role —to help put this party together."

Arms expert named defense chief

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Thursday named Dmitri F. Ustinov, an arms expert, as defense minister to succeed Marshal Andrei A. Grechko, Tass news agency said.

The announcement came only hours after the top Soviet leadership, led by a weeping party secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, paid final tribute to Grechko, the man who built Russia's modern military might in nine years as defense minister.

Grechko died Monday of a heart attack at age 72.

Ustinov, 68, was one of the eulogists at Grechko's funeral and was the man who placed the late defense minister's ashes in a niche in the Kremlin wall.

TASS SAID Ustinov was "promoted to the rank of general of the army" at the same time. However, it was not clear whether this was a reserve or active rank. Until now he was believed to be a civilian.

The last civilian defense minister in the Soviet Union was Leon Trotsky, who was fired in 1925.

Ustinov, a member of the ruling Political Bureau and a former minister of armaments for seven years from 1946-53, was a graduate of the Leningrad Military Engineering Institute.

Ustinov, whose entire career has been linked with the Soviet defense establishment, was elected last month to the Politburo. He also holds the key position of Communist party secretary in charge of the defense industry.

At the time of his Politburo appointment, Western diplomats described him as a solid supporter of Brezhnev. But they said they considered him to be "unsympathetic" towards the policy of East-West detente on which Brezhnev has staked his career.

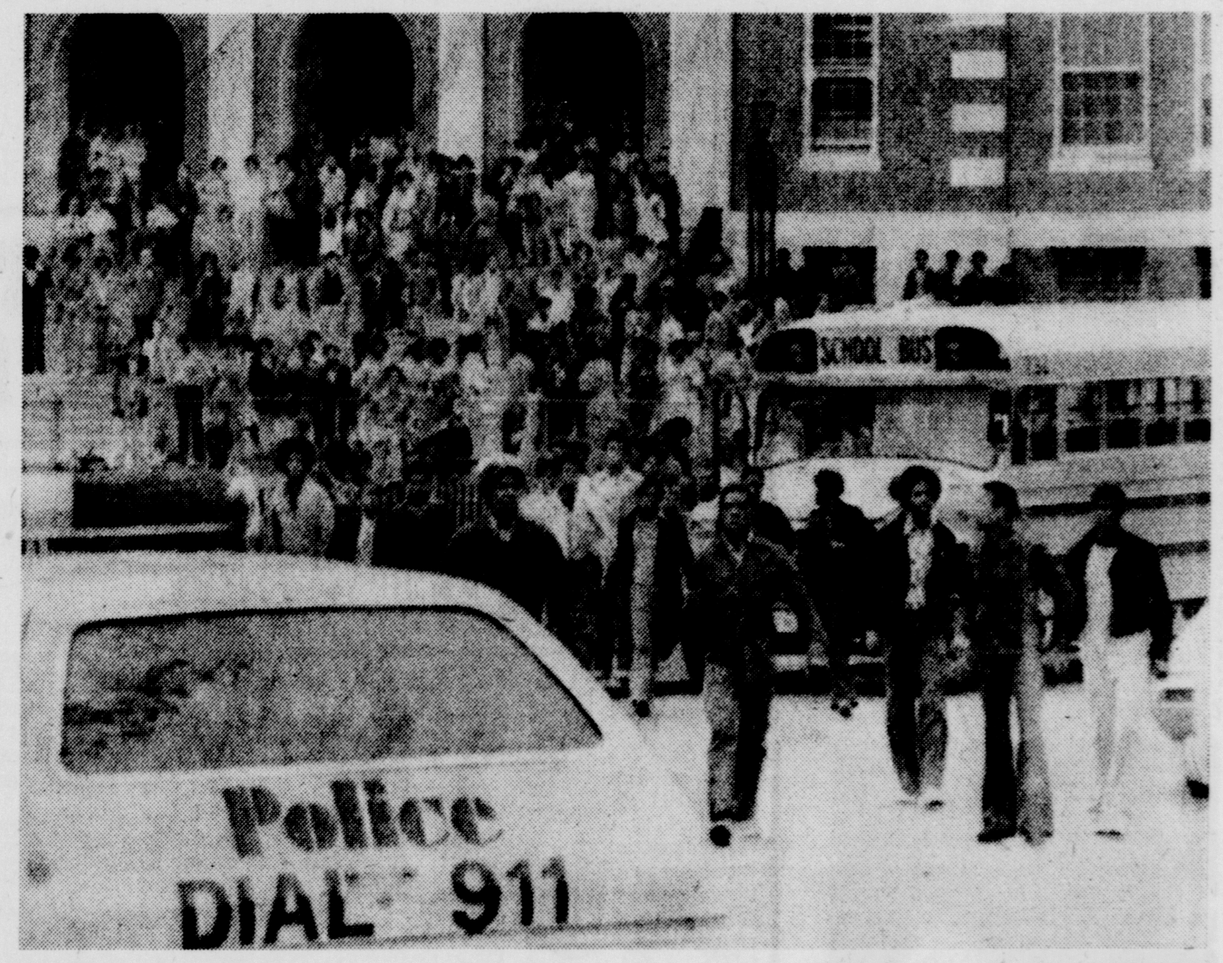
BORN TO A WORKER'S family in Kuybyshev, on the Volga in the Russian Federated Republic, Ustinov spent the war years as political commissar for armaments. In 1965 he was elected secretary of the party Central Committee.

Grechko's commrades in the ruling Politburo gave him a soldier's farewell in Red Square, draped with crimson edged in black and patrolled by KGB internal security troops in peacock-green uniforms.

Nature provided dramatic accompaniment. A thundering sky opened up with a storm of rain and sleet as a military band played the Soviet national anthem and cannons roared out three times in a last salute.

Grechko, who directed the 1968 invasion of Czechoslovakia, was cremated Wednesday night. The foot-high pewter urn containing his ashes was carried into Red Square aboard a flag-draped gun carriage preceded by hundreds of mourners.

The urn, enclosed in a green and white floral tabernacle, stood in the center of the square surrounded by soldiers as politicians and generals read eulogies from atop the mausoleum housing the embalmed body of Vladimir I. Lenin.



FIGHTING BETWEEN black and white students erupted Thursday at Hyde Park High School in Boston after the students were forced into the street by a bomb scare. Fighting lasted only a short time when rocks and bottles were thrown. No students were arrested and no serious injuries were reported from the series of roving fights that began about 9:30 a.m. School officials ordered the school closed for the rest of the day and officials met with faculty and administration representatives to discuss the incident. Police later arrested three youths who claimed to be Hyde Park students for throwing stones at cars. Attendance was normal in other Boston schools.

U.S. to expand King murder probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Justice Dept. announced Thursday it will expand its investigation into the murder of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. even though it has found no evidence the FBI was behind the killing.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Stanley Pottinger said a five-month Justice Dept. investigation did not fully "exonerate" the FBI and the new inquiries ordered by Atty. Gen. Edward Levi are not just "cosmetic exercises."

"It is possible that they will find new evidence," Pottinger told a news conference.

"If it weren't possible, I would not recommned that they go ahead. I do not believe, quite frankly, in cosmetic exercises."

HE SAID THE department often gets tips about an alleged conspiracy behind the murder of King, who was the target of FBI harassment before his death, and that: "If anyone conspired with James Earl Ray, we want to know about it."

He said the department's Office of Professional Responsibility will review files at FBI headquarters and field offices and interview possible witnesses.

Levi, in a written statement, said he wants final answers on whether the FBI played any role in King's death and whether anyone should be prosecuted for the bureau's "systematic harassment" of the civil rights leader.

He said the department's preliminary investigation reached these "tentative conclusions":

- "There is no basis to believe that the FBI in any way caused the death of Dr. King."
- "No evidence was discovered that the FBI investigation of the assassination of Dr. King was not thorough and honest."
- "Instances were found indicating that the FBI undertook a systematic program of harassment of Dr. King in order to discredit him and harm both him and the movement he led."

But Levi said he wants the expanded investigation to answer "four specific questions" about the bureau's connections with King:

Whether "there is any evidence that the FBI was involved in the assassination"; whether its investigation of the murder was "thorough and honest"; whether any new evidence on the assassination has developed; and "whether the nature of the relationship between the bureau and Dr. King calls for criminal prosecutions, disciplinary proceedings or other appropriate action."

The Senate Intelligence Committee concluded that FBI director J. Edgar Hoover considered King a dangerous radical and kept him under close wiretap and bugging surveillance. It said the bureau harassed King constantly and once sent him an anonymous letter suggesting he commit suicide or face disclosure of an extramarital love affair.

King was fatally shot by a rifleman as he stood on a motel balcony in Memphis, Tenn., on April 4, 1968.

The convicted assassin, James Earl Ray, pleaded guilty to a Tennessee state murder charge and is serving a life sentence. He is appealing for a new trial.

Ma Bell service charge violates ICC regulations

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI) — The Illinois Commerce Commission Thursday said Illinois Bell Telephone Company's plan for charging for "information" calls violates ICC orders and may not be implemented pending further hearings.

The ICC granted Bell permission Feb. 4 to begin charging for some types of directory assistance calls. Bell filed a proposed rate structure April 1.

"The plan filed by Illinois Bell on April 1 does not comply with the commission's Feb. 4 order . . . " the ICC said.

The ICC said Bell's plan would result in charges being levied against persons who call information to get new numbers not yet listed in phone books and for numbers which the information operators are unable to find.

The order permitting Bell to charge for directory assistance calls specifically required that no charge be made in such cases, the ICC said.

The original commission order permitted Bell, with those and other exceptions, to charge 10 cents for each call to directory assistance. However, each residential customer was to be allowed six free information calls per month and given credit for any of the six calls which were not used.

The ICC said it will hold further hearings on Bell's proposed fee schedule.

Calley wedding plans announced

- Former Army Lt. William Calley is getting married May 15 to a 29-year-old Columbus woman he met five years go, the Atlanta Journal reported today. Calley, convicted of murdering at least 22 civilians at My Lai in South Vietnam, met Penny Vick five years go and the couple has been engaged for more than a year. Miss Vick is a buyer for her father's Columbus jewelry store. Calley has lived in Columbus since his 1971 court-martial conviction. The U.S. Supreme Court recently refused to review his sentence, but the Army has said it will not jail him.
- Actor Walter Matthau was reported making good progress Thursday in recuperating from coronary bypass surgery at Daniel Freeman Hospital in Inglewood, Calif. A spokesman said the 54-year-old Academy Award winner may be released from the hospital during the weekend.
- Italian movie actress Gina Lollobrigida has been crowned an honorary Moslem queen in the Southern Philippines and given a gold-plated replica of a mythical bird for her "beauty and royal prominence," the official Philippine News Agency reported Thursday. The coronation ceremony took place Saturday in Marawi City, a picturesque Moslem lakeshore resort area 400 miles south of Manila.
- Susan Ford, queen of the 23rd Azalea Festival in Norfolk, Va., said Thursday her father is deeply worried about the outcome of the Texas primary on Saturday. "Texas is a little shaky," she told reporters. She said she hopes her father will be able to return from Texas in time Saturday to crown her queen of the festival, which honors the NATO countries.
- Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, was admitted to Bethesda Naval Hospital Thursday for treatment of an inflamed nerve in his neck. A spokesman said Muskie, 62, was expected to remain in the hospital about three days. The condition was described as being painful but not serious, according to the spokesman.

House rejects shifting of funds

The House Thursday rejected a proposal to shift $2.5 billion from defense spending to jobs, welfare, health, education and law enforcement in next year's budget. The vote was 317 to 85 against the proposal by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y. "The arms race is a mad race," said Rep. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., during the debate. "It is time to support the human race." It was the second time in two days the House voted down proposals to cut defense. On Wednesday it rejected 255 to 145 an effort to trim $300 million in defense spending.

Priest to seek church sanction of marriage

The Rev. James Groppi, the activist Roman Catholic priest who set Milwaukee on its ear by leading marches for open housing, planned Thursday to meet with Archbishop William E. Cousins to find if his civil marriage can be solemnized in a church ceremony. Groppi, 45, said he would meet with the archbishop Monday to ask for a religious followup to his marriage in Las Vegas last week to Margaret Rozga, 30, a Milwaukee English teacher. Groppi made national headlines in the 1960s when he led blacks and whites in a marathon series of open housing marches. He revealed Wednesday that he and Miss Rozga were married Thursday.

Maintain usability of Panama Canal: Ford

President Ford Thursday said ending negotiations on the Panama Canal could result in it being disabled. "The Panama Canal is not in the over-all context as important today as it was in the past," Ford said at a news conference. "What I am trying to do is trying to maintain the usability of that canal . . . without bloodshed . . . without guerrilla warfare. Earlier this week a political research group, the Overseas Development Council, said the United States will experience serious diplomatic and economic problems in Latin America unless it reaches a new canal agreement.

Youth 'bares' everything

A young man at Baylor University in Waco, Tex., bared himself fore and aft Thursday as President Ford's limousine drove past the Baptist college campus. The blond youth, standing in front of a campus men's residence, turned his back on the President and pulled down his pants. Then he turned and grinned. Another male student reached over and ripped down his shorts, leaving the young man wearing only a ten-gallon hat and his smile. Persons in the presidential motorcade saw the display but there was no indication Ford did.

Bank of England suspect in smuggling probe

Bank of England senior officials, worldwide symbols of financial probity, are being investigated for suspected currency smuggling and fraud involving up to $100 million, financial sources said Thursday. For the first time in its 280-year history, the bank itself confirmed Wednesday newspaper reports that a probe of its affairs was under way. The bank said "enforcement officers" of the Treasury Dept. were aiding its own security personnel in trying to learn "whether any official of the bank has knowingly been involved in any breaches of the Exchange Control Act."

Explosion rocks Soviet Embassy in Peking

An explosion shattered the entrance to the Soviet Embassy in Peking Thursday, killing two Chinese guards, the official news agency Tass reported. The Kremlin immediately lodged a protest with Peking. The two-paragraph item did not detail what caused the blast. "Two Chinese guards were killed," the new agency said. "The embassy building suffered damage." The incident came a day after the Soviet Union made it known to Peking that it was ready to resume talks which have been deadlocked for years on disputed border areas. Since the deadlock developed, each side has kept up a barrage of propaganda warfare.

Stocks make small gain; Dow Jones up 1.42

NEW YORK (UPI) — U.S. Steel and General Motors were pacesetters as the stock market managed a small, irregular gain Thursday in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange amid concern over Federal Reserve Board monetary policy.

The impetus for some late buying was U.S. Steel's announcement of a 6 per cent hike on major products. An early rally was sparked by General Motors' 14-fold rise in first-quarter earnings.

The news allowed the Dow Jones industrial average to gain 1.42 points to 1,002.13 in a see-saw day. The blue-chip average, a 5.20-point winner Wednesday, had been ahead about five points at the outset, off as many as two and up five again.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index closed unchanged to 102.13, the NYSE common stock index eased 0.01 to 54.34 and the average price of an NYSE common share decreased by one cent.

THE VOLUME of 17,740,000 was better than the 15,790,000 traded Wednesday, but far below the first quarter daily average of 27 million shares. The turnover was restained as many investors waited on the sidelines waiting for the Federal Reserve Board's weekly report on the nation's money supply.

Released after the market closed, the report showed the basic money supply rose $400 million in the latest reporting period, compared with a $3.4 billion surge reported last week. On a broader scale, however, there was a decline.

Signal Cos. topped the Big Board active list, gaining ½ to 21-1/8 on 336,400 shares, including a block of 200,000 shares at 20-5/8. The company's directors recently rejected a merger bid of Dresser Industries and considered extending a joint tender offer with Gulf & Western for its shares. Dresser lost 3/8 to 75. Gulf & Western finished unchanged at 22-5/8.

W. W. Grainger was the second most active issue, unchanged at 31½ on 250,500 shares, including a block of 250,000 shares at 31½. National Semiconductor was third, off 2¼ to 42¼ on 212,600 shares.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by one cent. Volume totaled 2,030,000 shares, compared with 1,920,000 traded Wednesday.

A few notes about the life of this high school tooter have played havoc.

It did not seem very likely that the family could afford any European music excursions.

RUTH HELBIG insisted that they ought to try. Gretchen remembered telling her, "Forget it. Europe is for people who can afford it."

Then one day last month, a letter arrived from Wright at Purdue. It said the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who had already contributed $550 to Gretchen's cause, had authorized a full sponsorship to Europe. They'd pay the whole $997.

So now Gretchen Helbig can concentrate on what she does best and enjoys most, playing the clarinet.

Gretchen has performed with the Chicago Metropolitan Youth Symphony, attended special summer music camps at the University of Illinois and Illinois Wesleyan University, and will study for two weeks this summer at the Stan Kenton Summer Jazz Clinic in Springfield, Mo.

She listened closely to clarinet instructor David Kulieke of Des Plains. Gretchen practiced long hours. Now, the dividends are being paid in rushes.

AT THE RECENT Illinois High School Assn. State Solo and Ensemble contest, Gretchen earned a perfect score in Division I, the level for most skilled performers.

She's been nominated for membership in the high school musicians' All-American Hall of Fame. There's this tremendous European music junket ahead.

Gretchen entertains a philosophy that, "I never accomplish anything. I'm never really satisfied. The better you get, or the harder things you get into, the more there is to learn.

"When you get to one big door and it's finally open," said Gretchen, "there are little doors inside that need to be opened.

"So I try and psyche myself into not being satisfied," she said. "I'll be satisfied when I can play perfectly. But I never expect that. There's always something to learn."

Of course, Gretchen never expected that she would be touring Europe this summer. Then some nice men from the VFW authorized her full sponsorship.

As Gretchen said, "Everything's turning out real great."

15 to compete in finals bid for spelling bee

Fifteen Northwest suburban young people will compete Saturday for an opportunity to represent the area at the National Spelling Bee competition in June.

The Paddock Publications Spelling Bee Finals will begin at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights. The competition is open to the public.

The winner of the bee will receive a 30-volume Encyclopaedia Britannica and a trip to Washington, D. C. for the national bee. Second place finalist will receive a black and white portable Zenith television.

All finalists are junior high school students from area schools who competed against nearly 250 contestants in the Paddock regional competition April 24.

Finalists include: Sue Kropid, St. Emily School; Joe Lassa, St. Mary School; Diane Penuela, St. Zachary School; Bill Runkel and Nancy Woodruff, Lincoln Junior High School; Ann Bjorndahl, Miner Junior High School; Katy Libby, London Junior High School; Steve Vavasis and Amy Von Jenef, South Junior High School; Laura Young; Twin Groves School; Jim Edstrom, Lori Reilly and Lori Steed, Eisenhower Junior High School; Terry McCoy St. Hubert School; and Lisa Rovella, St. Theresa School.

United posts $42 million loss

United Airlines Thursday announced a net loss of $42.9 million for the first quarter of 1976 on airline revenues of $533.7 million.

The figures compared with a loss of $8.7 million on revenues of $510.1 million for the first quarter of 1975.

The airline also announced a net loss of $7.8 million for March, compared with a $3.1 million profit for March, 1975.

UAL, parent company of the airline, also announced a net loss of $1.7 million for the quarter from operations of another subsidiary, Western International Hotels, compared with a net profit of $55,000 for the 1975 period. Revenues for the hotel venture were $54.8 million, up 28 per cent from a year earlier.

4 vandalism solutions studied

Four possible courses of action to combat vandalism in Arlington Heights and help control juveniles at the local level will be examined by the Zero Vandalism committee.

The tactics, discussed in the committee Thursday, ranged from a reinstatement of a curfew law for minors, to establishment of a 14-commu-nit lobbying group to impress judges with the seriousness of the vandalism

Other possible recourses under consideration were the writing of local ordinances covering not only vandals but also parents, holding them responsible for the illegal actions of their children. Village assistance for homeowners seeking restitution for damages through small claims court also was considered.

VILLAGE PROSECUTOR Ernest Blomquist, speaking to the committee, said the recent court decision finding the state curfew laws unconstitutional will bring about "a long hot summer in some places."

Capt. Paul Buckholz, former head of the police juvenile bureau, said the effect of the ruling will be felt this summer when the weather turns warm and youngsters begin congregating in large numbers.

Arthur Gollberg, committee member, said although the curfew law has been found unconstitutional, police should continue making the arrests. He said the court appearance for the youngsters would serve as "punishment" even if the cases were dismissed.

BLOMQUIST SAID after the meeting that such a tactic would be in violation of judicial standards and could be considered "malicious prosecution," leaving the village open to civil rights suits.

Blomquist said if a curfew law is needed, pressure must be brought on sstate legislators to draft one that would not infringe on the freedom of movement.

Village ordinances now cover only damage against public property, but Blomquist said one could be written to include acts of vandalism against private homes and shops.

A subcommittee will study another ordinance that would hold parents resonsible for their children's acts, if the child is a repeat offender.

Groups ready to protest hospital abortion stance

An anti-abortion demonstration is being planned for Mother's Day at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights, to protest the hospital's recent decision to allow abortions to be performed there in the first three months of pregnancy.

Groups planning to participate in the protest are Right to Life, Illinois Citizens Concerned for Life, Christians United for Life, and Infant, said Barbara Menes, chairman of the local Right to Life group.

"We chose Mother's Day because of its significance to mothers who have borne children and because of those women who will go in the hospital as mothers, but won't be when they come out," Mrs. Menes said.

Mrs. Menes was unsure of how many persons would picket the hospital, but did say she hoped for about 50.

THE PROTEST is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

The decision to allow abortions was made Tuesday by the hospital's board of directors. It reverses the hospital's previous policy of permitting abortions only in cases where the mother's life was endangered by the pregnancy.

Hospital Pres. Malcom MacCoun said the new policy was a reflection of community feeling that the hospital should make itself available for the procedure when agreed upon by a woman and her doctor.

The new policy does not mean "abortion on demand," nor does it make it mandatory for doctors and nurses of the hospital to participate in the operation, he said.

"SOCIETY TODAY is calling for a totally impossible Utopia, wanting every child to be a wanted child. We are absolutely against abortion on demand, except to save the life of the mother," Mrs. Menes said.

Joanne Kaplis, chairman of the southwestern metropolitan chapter of Illinois Citizens Concerned for Life, said the 15,000 members in Cook County will be informed of the planned protest.

"Normally we act only as a political arm against abortion, but we try to be supportive of other pro-life groups," she said.

Woman indicted in death of area man

A Cook County grand jury has indicted a 19-year-old Arlington Heights woman for reckless homicide and involuntary manslaughter in connection with the Jan. 3 death of a Mount Prospect man.

Indictments were returned Thursday against Donna Wolter, 19, of 1615 E. Central Rd.

Arlington Heights police say Ms. Wolter is the woman who was driving an auto that killed Douglas Moore, also 19, in a garage at Dana Point apartment complex where she lives.

Moore, 601 E. Prospect Ave., was killed when he was struck by an auto and pinned between the car and a section of an overhead door and a wall. The two reportedly had attended a birthday party together that evening.

There were no witnesses, but a coroner's jury later ruled the case should go to the grand jury.

Dist. 59 creating panel to better communication

A committee to improve communications between the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 school board and the community will be set up by the board Monday.

The communication committee was requested by board member Charles Canupp at a board workshop Wednesday. The committee will include board members, administrators, teachers and PTA representatives.

The communications committee would be added to the district's standing committees that cover such areas as budget, policies, negotiations and personnel.

At the workshop, the board also agreed to consider at Monday's regular board meeting two resolutions that developed out of public hearings on the alternative school.

AT HEARINGS held in March, parents objected to forming an alternative school that would have offered a strict academic program and discipline policy. Parents also raised questions about the types of education programs currently offered in the schools and about the discipline policies.

The board in March dropped the idea of forming an alternative school for this fall, but agreed to review the discipline policies and program development.

The board plans to direct Supt. Roger Bardwell to review the current discipline policies at the individual schools with the staff, and make recommendations to the board for possible changes.

The board also plans to adopt a resolution that will recommend encouraging the individual schools to develop programs that reflect the needs of the various communities and having the board, administration and teachers continue to develop ways of communicating with the parents.

Straight flush for fire hydrants

Arlington Heights public works crews will continue to flush the village's fire hydrants through Wednesday, Public Works Director Gene Willroth said Thursday.

The work will be done "around the clock" until all hydrants have been flushed, Willroth said.

The hydrants are opened twice a year to flush residue from the water system and to check the operation of the hydrants, he said.

The work will cause water pressure "to bounce around," according to Willroth.

Kite flying contest at Pioneer Park

The second annual Pioneer Park kite flying contest will be held at 1 p.m Saturday at the park, 500 S. Fernandez Ave., Arlington Heights.

Featured events will include the highest flying kite, the smallest and largest kites and best homemade kite.

First-, second-and third-place ribbons will be awarded in three age groups: 7 and under, 8-12 and 13 and over.

In case of rain, the contest will be rescheduled May 8.

Hearing set Thursday

Harper in court over pay talks

by DIANE GRANAT

The Harper College Faculty Senate has entered another court battle over salary negotiations with the Harper Board of Trustees.

The faculty senate Wednesday obtained an injunction against the college board, prohibiting the board from mailing contracts to faculty members.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Nathan M. Cohen issued a temporary restraining order preventing the Harper board from communicating directly with faculty members about contracts, and salary negotiations without prior approval of the court.

A HEARING ON the matter is set for 3:30 p.m. Thursday before Judge Cohen.

The faculty senate sought the injunction after the board established salaries for the 1976-77 school year following a breakdown in negotiations.

The faculty charged the board with violating an agreement which recognizes the faculty senate for negotiating. The agreement expires June 1.

"In issuing the temporary order, Judge Cohen agreed that the board's unilateral ending of negotiations violates the terms of their recognition agreement with the faculty senate," said Michael Bartos, chief faculty negotiator.

TRUSTEE Robert Rausch, chief board negotiator, said the board believed the agreement merely names the faculty senate as the bargaining agent, but does not require the board to negotiate.

Rausch said the court order means the board will wait until June 1 to mail the contracts, after the agreement with the faculty senate ends.

"If we mail the contracts before June 1, we are in effect bargaining with individual faculty members," Rausch said, rather than bargaining with the faculty senate as a collective unit.

"This just means a three-or four-week delay in mailing the contract," Rausch said. "The terms of the contract are set. We will not go back to the table."

THE BOARD BROKE off negotiations with the faculty April 1 after the faculty refused to accept the salary ranges set by the board.

The board set the condition that regardless of any negotiated salary increase, the maximum ranges set by the board would be enforced. With that condition, faculty members whose salaries exceed the maximum range would not receive the full raise.

During negotiations, the faculty would not accept that condition, and said the full raise should go to everyone.

At the board meeting April 13, the board granted a $1,275 salary increase to all faculty members, unless their salary will exceed the maximum range set for their jobs.

MAXIMUM SALARIES established by the board in December are $18,250 for instructors, $21,000 for assistant professors, $24,140 for associate professors and $27,760 for professors.

Negotiations last year ended in a court battle when the faculty sued the board of trustees for not allowing 11 senior faculty members to receive the full negotiated salary increase.

The faculty won the case last summer, allowing the senior members to exceed their salary range maximum.

In December, the Harper board took steps to avoid similar problems this year by approving pay ranges before negotiations began.

THE FACULTY filed suit again in February, charging the trustees with bad faith in the contract talks for the coming school year. The faculty objected to the board setting salary ranges before negotiations, saying any salary decisions should be made at the bargaining table.

Cook County Circuit Court Judge Joseph Wosik ruled in favor of the college board in February, saying the trustees have a right to establish salary ranges. The court also denied the faculty's attempt to make the board negotiate the faculty's salary proposal.

Bartos said earlier money was not the concern of the faculty, and he was satisfied with the pay increase. The issues were whether all faculty members receive the full raise and the board's refusal to negotiate after April 1, Bartos said.

Bartos said Thursday the board of trustees "never had to make an agreement with us to negotiate, but once they had done it, they are bound to honor it."

Bartos said the faculty senate was empowered at a faculty meeting April 15 to take legal action against the college board.

'76 Wagon Train due in Arlington

The Bicentennial Wagon Train will arrive in Arlington Heights Wednesday for a free day of music, a horse show and what's billed as the "world's largest hoe-down" before resuming its eastward trek to Valley Forge.

About 30 horse-drawn Conestoga wagons are scheduled to arrive at Arlington Park Race Track from the Lake County Fair Grounds between 3 and 4 p.m. The wagons will be open to inspection by the public until 7 p.m.

A Bicentennial band concert is scheduled with a two-hour stage show, featuring the group Shivaree from the Old Town School of Folk Music.

A PRODUCTION number, "Pageant of the Horse," will be performed by the horses and riders of the Appaloosa Horse Clubs of the Midwest. There also will be a spotlight performance by Conversano Prima Donna, a Lipizzan stallion from the Temple Farms.

The 130-member chorus of the Arlingtones, the Arlington Heights chapter of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, will perform as part of the free show.

The stage show will end with a performance by an acting toupe from the University of Pennsylvania.

The day's activities will conclude with a square dance in the race tracks two exhibition halls. There will be three callers and 200 costumed members of the Metropolitan Square Dance Assn. of Chicago to assist in teaching square dancing.

The wagon train and accompanying show are a joint effort by the Arlington Park Race Track.

Cops may sue to gain promotions based on recently-held tests, interviews and job performance evaluations. In the past, the promotions have been given to those at the top of the list.

HANSON DEFENDED his stand, saying the administration's long-range study of the police department indicated "we did not have the necessity for the (ranking) officers." He said that just because there had been three captains in the force in the past, it did not mean there would always be three captains.

"The new chief might want a deputy chief instead of a captain. We, at least, have to give him that consideration," Hanson said.

He said a possible reorganization of the department has been studied with an eye toward the new commander taking over this summer. He said the new chief should have some say-so into any reorganization.

"At this stage and time it's the only logical and viable thing to do," Hanson said.

"Its' a pretty sorry democracy when an employe can tell me what to do . . . It's very, very sad when a manager doesn't have any control over his chain of organization," he said.

Hanson said he has never been sued by a village employe in the past and if the matter did go to court he would be represented by Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel. However, he said he had not yet discussed the situation with Siegel.

When asked if he were prepared to follow the matter through the courts if necessary, Hanson answered, "I'd be forced to."

Staahl selected teacher of year

The Arlington Teachers' Assn. will host a tea to honor the Arlington Heights Dist. 25 teacher of the year, Lucille Staahl, from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The tea will be held in the resource room at Rand Junior High, 2550 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, where Mrs. Staahl is a teacher. The public is invited.

'Dandelion' tickets available at door

Tickets will be available at the door tonight for the Bicentennial presentation of "Dandelion Wine," said Dwight Walton, chairman of the Arlington Heights Bicentennial Commission.

The play will be presented by the Goodman Theatre Center of the Art Institute of Chicago at 8 p.m. at St. Viator High School.

Tickets are $1 for senor citizens, $3.50 for adults and $1.75 for students. Special rates, available until 4 p.m. today for groups of 10 or more, are $2.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Arlington Hts. VFW in parade Sunday

The Arlington Heights VFW Post 981 will march Sunday in the Loyalty Day Parade in Park Ridge.

The parade, which is sponsored by the Fourth District VFW State of Illinois, will begin at 1:30 p.m.

The parade route is from the intersection of Dee Road and Busse Highway, southeast on Busse to Morris Avenue.

Ordinance No. 1418

(An Ordinance Amending Title 7.08.050)

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling deem it in the best interests of the citizens of the Village of Wheeling that the fees for the annual animal license be increased from the sum of $2.25 to $5.00; and

WHEREAS, the President and Board of Trustees are so authorized to increase said fee;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT ORDAINED by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Wheeling, County of Cook, State of Illinois, as follows:

SECTION A.

That Title 7.08.050 of the Wheeling Municipal Code be amended as follows:

7.08.050 Fees. Every owner of an animal within the village of Wheeling shall pay an annual license fee of five dollars for each animal, and shall receive from the village clerk a metal tag bearing the letters W.A.T. as well as the license number and the year issued, stamped thereon. Any owner of a licensed animal whose license tag has been lost may obtain a replacement tag by payment of a fee of fifty cents to the village clerk. In the event a citation has been issued for failure to comply with this section, the required license fee shall be paid prior to the paying of any fine required by this chapter, to become effective June 1, 1976

SECTION B.

All ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

SECTION C.

The invalidity of any section or provision of this ordinance shall not invalidate other sections or provisions thereof.

SECTION D.

This ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its passage, approval and publication according to law.

PASSED this 26th day of April, 1976.

The way we see it

Chief selection plans praised

We are pleased by procedures that have been announced for finding a replacement for Arlington Heights Police Chief L. W. Calderwood when he retires July 30.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, who has responsibility for hiring and firing village department heads, has indicated a wide-ranging effort will be launched to secure applicants for the position. Hanson is in the process of naming a five-member interviewing committee to screen applicants. The committee will be composed of the three-member fire and police commission plus two outside law enforcement experts.

The committee will narrow the field to three or four candidates who will undergo formal testing procedures. The final choice will be made by Hanson.

Village Pres. James T. Ryan has called for an "active" search in which "geography should be no barrier."

We concur. The only objective of the search should be to find the best qualified candidate to lead the department in the future.

A community the size of Arlington Heights, with the salary levels it can pay, should be able to attract a top-rated law enforcement officer.

The increasing rate of suburban crime and the growing complexity of law enforcement demand that the community find the best person available.

With the proper amount of patience and determination, the procedures announced by Hanson will bring the needed results.

The vilage board's finance committee, which has been studying the need for a new police station, has wisely recommended that plans for hiring an architect and consultant for the facility be postponed until after the selection of a new chief.

We urge, at the same time, that a recent recommendation for the reorganization of the department also be shelved until a new chief is on the job.

Arlington Heights is searching all over for the best police chief available.

Luck has nothing to do with Cardinals' streak

It seems silly to wish Arlington tennis coach Tom Pitchford luck anymore.

As he will tell you, luck no longer plays a part in the success the Cardinals have had since they joined the Mid-Suburban League 10 years ago.

In that time, Pitchford's teams have won 10 conference championshps, and their string of dual meet victories reached 100 with their 3-2 win over Prospect Tuesday.

Perfection depends not a bit on luck.

"Luck," the Arlington coach will say, "is when preparation meets opportunity."

The cliches of the coaching fraternity are often used in place of substance, but in Pitchford's case his words carry the importance he attaches to them.

Arlington's success in the MSL tennis world has continued because Pitchford works hard at his job and believes in the young men who play for him.

He plans for the future, knowing who he will have playing for him in four or five years.

Pitchford molds team spirit in a sport that is geared to the individual.

And most importantly, he conducts himself in such a way that his efforts are reciprocated by his players.

So when opportunity appears, as it has in the form of 100 dual meets over the last decade, Arlington is prepared to make the most of it.

Luck has nothing to do with it.

Setting goals is an important part of Pitchford's coaching philosophy.

And after achieving a goal as monumental as 100 straight victories, the resulting emotional drain tests that philosophy even more than the goal itself.

With that in mind, we wish the Arlington tennis program and Tom Pitchford only one thing: that thier preparation continues to meet opportunity for 100 more dual meets.

Rick Monday: fast act prevented flag burning

Cubs center fielder Rick Monday is receiving well earned praise for his quick action Sunday in preventing the burning of an American flag during a Cubs-Dodger game in Los Angeles.

The incident happened between the third and fourth innings when two men bolted onto the playing field, spread out a flag and doused it with lighter fluid.

Before they could light it, Monday snatched the flag away from them and carried it to safety.

We share Monday's horror and disgust at the stupidity of this "demonstration" and are pleased that he was able to prevent it.

The action certainly backfired on the perpetrators. Rather than shocking the nation by their action, the pair created an instant hero. Monday was saluted in Chicago by owners of National Baseball League teams. And in Springfield, State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) and House Speaker William Redmond (D-Bensenville) co-sponsored a resolution commending Monday for his act.

Faster even than a legislative pay raise might be passed, the House unanimously adopted the resolution.

Voter analysis disputed

The "news analysis" of the recent School Dist. 54 election by Pam Bigford (Herald, April 15) leads one to believe that the "community" of the district had decided that the incumbents who had campaigned on a hard line stand relative to the teachers' union should not be returned to serve on the board.

I wonder if The Herald and Ms. Bigford would consider the possibility of doing a little more research on the subject of voter analysis. It might be interesting to check into three areas.

First, there were 12 candidates sharing the vote this year. In view of various endorsements and the fact that incumbents were involved, there were really only six likely successful candidates. The other six drew over 1,100 votes. Where would those votes have gone if they were spread over the top six?

Second, there were over 500 votes unaccounted for obviously caused by people who voted for just one candidate rather than three. Where would those votes have gone if they had been cast?

THIRD, How many votes cast were by teachers?

An analysis of those answers may show that it was a concentrated teacher effort rather than the "community" that was able to oust the hard line incumbents.

However, regardless of this analysis and despite the fact that only 9 per cent of the eligible voters took time to vote, it remains a fact that Ms. Carpenter, Ms. Czajkowski and Mr. Watts will be on the board.

I hope, in the best interests of the district, that everyone including The Herald staff and editorial staff will make positive suggestions before the fact rather than sit around and wait for them to do something wrong so you can climb on their backs. Also be sure you know and understand the facts and total implications of any suggestions before you attempt to influence the public via your editorial powers.

Asks coverage of Malawi

Editors must of necessity be objective in their coverage of news events. Editors are also human and as such may error in judgment. Perhaps this has been the case with The Herald and Jehovah's Witnesses.

A great wave of persecution continues against these people in the African Republic of Malawi. News dispatches from around the world decry what is undoubtedly the worst case of religious oppression by a national government since Hitler's Germany. The Herald was personally presented with extensive fact sheets, news releases and other information detailing the new acts of brutality against this Christian minority as well as the efforts of the Malawian government officials to cover up these atrocities. To date, I have not read even one line, editorially or otherwise, in The Herald on this matter. Why?

It has been suggested that the beating, robbing, raping, maiming and murdering of innocent men, women and children in Malawi is not of interest to The Herald community. The subjecting of people whose principal crime is their faith, to the most degraded forms of perverted abuses in overcrowded concentration camps does not really affect us locally.

Is the burning of well over a thousand of their homes, their Kingdom Halls, forcing tens of thousands to flee for their lives of less interest to freedom loving Herald readers than the saber rattling of State Department officials endeavoring to resist Soviet expansion in Angola and other African countries?

JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES worldwide do not engage in politics or join in political agitation based on Jesus' statement that his followers would be "no part of this world" and that "His kingdom was not part of this world." Because they refuse to join the only political party in Malawi, even as they refused to heil Hitler and join the German Nazi party, they are persecuted.

The many hundreds of zealous Witnesses in The Herald area are certainly interested and concerned about the welfare of their Malawian brothers. So are the additional hundreds of local people who have benefited from the free home Bible study activity carried on by the Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Elk Grove and Palatine Congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses. Even among the many who are unsympathetic with our scripturally based neutrality, there are countless ones who, on purely humanitarian grounds, decry the happenings in Malawi and who would be strengthened by reading of the courageous faith of a minority.

Perhaps in the future, The Herald editors will consider these factors when determining whether the local or international activity of Jehovah's Witnesses is newsworthy or not.

Today is Friday, April 30, the 121st day of 1976 with 245 days to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

Queen Juliana of the Netherlands was born April 30, 1909.

On this day in history:

- In 1803, the United States more than doubled its land area with the Louisiana Purchase. It obtained all French territory west of the Mississippi River for $15 million.
- In 1945, the body of German dictator Adolf Hitler was found in a bunker under the ruins of Berlin. Also that day, Russian soldiers captured the Reichstag in Berlin, and raised the Communist flag over the Nazi capital.
- In 1963, New Hampshire became the first state to legalize a state-run lottery since 1894 when a similar one ended in Louisiana.
- In 1975, the Communists occupied Saigon and the Vietnam War was at an end.

A thought for the day: Charles Dudley Darner, American man of letters, said, "Politics makes strange bedfellows."

PROVIDENCE, R.I., April 30 — Navy Capt. Abraham Whipple, accused of cowardice in the engagement with the British ship Glasgow in early April, asked for a court-martial so that he could be "either acquitted with honor or broken with disgrace." He argued that any failure of duty was not from fear but "want of judgment."

Rehnquist plays larger role on court

by JAMES A. KIDNEY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When William H. Rehnquist took his seat on the Supreme Court four years ago, many observers believed he would be a conservative counterpart to liberal William O. Douglas, representing a point of view the majority rarely would follow.

Douglas, especially in his last few years on the court under Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, represented an extreme. He was the court's most frequent dissenter.

During three full terms on the high court, Rehnquist dissented more than the other three justices appointed by President Richard M. Nixon, although never so often as Douglas or another liberal, William J. Brennan Jr. His billing as a conservative gadfly seemed appropriate.

But Rehnquist, who at 52 is the youngest of the nine justices, seems to be assuming a greater leadership role during the court's current term.

OF THE 55 decisions handed down so far (fewer than one-third the expected total), Rehnquist, along with Potter Stewart, has written the most majority opinions and has sided with the majority more than anyone else.

More significantly, five of Rehnquist's eight opinions for the major ity have been among the most important handed down this term. They have met with vigorous dissents by Brennan and Thurgood Marshall, the court's only consistently liberal justices since Douglas retired last fall.

In four of the five cases Rehnquist ruled against indiiduals seeking changes or redress in connection with government activity.

IN ONE, Rehnquist said police could regulate their officers' hair length, although Rehnquist's own hairstyle with long sideburns would fail to meet most police force standards.

In the fifth opinion, Rehnquist significantly expanded the rights of widely known personalities as libel suit plaintiffs.

One decision held that no constitutional right was infringed when police labeled an innocent man a shoplifter. This prompted Brennan to write that "the potential of today's decision is frightening for a free people."

Traditionally, the strongest advocate for the majority among the justices is assigned to write the opinion. Thus, it seems that Rehnquist is frequently successful in persuading key colleagues to support his conservative legal views.

THE OTHER NIXON appointees — Burger, Lewis F. Powell and Harry A. Blackmun — generally have voted with Rehnquist this term. Of the three, only Blackmun has dissented from a major Rehnquist opinion.

In additon Rehnquist has consistently won the votes of either Potter Stewart or Byron R. White, and often both of them, to make up a court majority. John Paul Stevens has not been on the court long enough to give any idea how he will tend to vote.

A keystone of Rehnquist's legal philosophy is the belief that federal courts should exercise restraint when asked to intervene in matters of state law.

Rehnquist says that on close questions, it is better to leave a law standing and permit infringement of an individual's rights than to strike the law down. To do otherwise, he says, "would impose upon the nation the judicial fiat of a majority of a court of judges whose connection with the popular will is remote at best."

"What does hanging on to one's mother's apron strings mean?"

SYMBOL of a NEW SEA POWER

On the same day Congress gave birth to our flag — June 14, 1777 — it also granted a naval commission to John Paul Jones. That single act was to bring early recognition to the flag it had just created.

After Jones outfitted his ship, Ranger, he moved into friendly French water. On February 14, 1778, in the harbor of Quiberon, French and American ships exchanged flag salutes. This was the first foreign recognition of the Stars and Stripes.

Two months later, Jones met and defeated the Britisn ship, Drake, and for the first time the Stars and Stripes was hoisted over a defeated vessel.

Most importantly, the victory made our flag a symbol to be reckoned with, a fact which Jones underscored dramatically in one of the great early sea battles.

Commanding the Bon Homme Richard, Jones met and engaged the British Serapis on September 23, 1779. At a point in battle when the balance favored the British, Jones was asked to surrender. He replied, "I have not yet begun to fight." The tide of battle and the future of our navy turned. The Serapis fell.

The leaders of a young nation had created a flag. John Paul Jones gained for it a new measure of respect.

Countryside COURT SHOPS

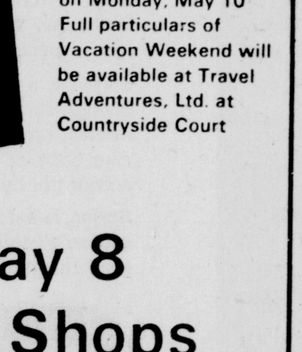
Just South of Golf Rd. On Elmhurst Road Route 83 in Convenient Mount Prospect



IT'S MORE THAN ENOUGH to make your mouth water. Most Jewish delicatessens tempt diners with a long case of deli delights right inside the front door. What's you choice? Knishes, bagels, pastrami, salami, corned beef, rye or pumpernickel. Pickles are usually already on the table.

Delis

Suburbia's serving plenty of lox and bagels

Delis are warm, friendly, bustling places that smell of onion, garlic, spices, fresh bread and pickles.

Although there are German delicatessens, delis are always Jewish. An authentic deli comes with a complete line of Kosher products, including the waiters and waitresses who always seem to know exactly what you want to order — even if you don't.

Delis make you think of bagels and lox, corned beef on rye, sour tomatoes, dill pickles, pastrami and cheese cake.

To an Easterner, delis mean the Stage Delicatessen in New York City. To a Chicagoan, delis mean Ashkenaz, formerly located in Rogers Park, and Bob Elfman's, at State and Lake in the Loop.

Delis started in the Jewish neighborhoods of big cities, and moved with the Jews as they migrated first to nearby suburbs and then even farther out.

FOR MANY YEARS, delis were an oddity in the Northwest suburbs. Siegelman's in Surrey Ridge Shopping Center, Arlington Heights, was about the first and only place where lox, blintzes, kishke and chopped liver could be found by local Jews and Christians alike who craved them for Sunday brunch.

Bill o' fare

Since then, more Jews have moved to the Northwest suburbs, and the delis have quickly followed. Among them are Gerry's Deli-Restaurant in Buffalo Grove's Plaza Verde Shopping Center and 2 cents Plain Restaurant and Deli, 1750 Hintz Rd., Wheeling. Both opened in the past year.

None have the flavor of city delis. The atmosphere is more slick, the waiters and waitresses more gentile and the pace a bit slower. But the food is familiar and in many cases quite good.

THE BEST OF THE three is Gerry's, which carries an inclusive menu full of Jewish specialities like smoked fish, blintzes, kishke, gefilte fish, a variety of soups, brisket, herring and chopped liver.

The sandwiches include the standbys — corned beef, pastrami and pickled tongue, $1.75 plain or $2.55 with coleslaw and choice of french fries or potato latke (pancake). Combination sandwiches with gimmicky names begin at $2.65 with the works.

The corned beef sandwich, on rye, of course, was good but a bit dry. The Reuben sandwich was moist and tasty, but the real specialty of the house is the smoked fish.

Nova Scotia salmon with cream cheese on a bagel, $2.05, was as good as any I've tasted in a deli. The Nova was delicate and subtle, the bagel warm and toasted, and the cream cheese was a heaping portion.

GERRY'S ALSO HAS sable, trout, chubs and barbecued salmon as well as both regular and belly lox.

A tasty kishke, 50 cents a side order, was a real bargain but arrived without gravy and only lukewarn.

Both the coleslaw and the dill pickles on the table left something to be desired. The coleslaw was flat tasting and the pickles a bit gritty.

Siegelman's offers a mixed menu, with some deli items as well as good old American food. The sandwiches are large — one is big enough for two with moderate appetites.

The corned beef and pastrami sandwiches are $2.40 including coleslaw, pickles and potatoes. Sandwiches with soup, salad and potatoes range from $2.20 (for a hot dog) to $4.60 (for a Reuben.).

THE CHOPPED LIVER sandwich, $1.75, was made in the Midwest tradition with beef liver. It was lighter than usual and moderately flavored with onion.

The Jewish Godfather combination of corned beef, Mozzarella cheese and tomato sauce toasted on a bagel was a good buy at $2.75. The french fries, with bits of skin still on them, were hot, crisp and just delicious, well worth the 50-cent price tag.

Sweet and sour cabbage soup, listed as Siegelman's special at 80 cents a cup, was a bit thin. But the tomato broth was full of cabbage, making it both filling and satisfying.

Compared to the other two delis, 2 Cents Plain ran a distant third. It offers an extensive menu, but prices are high and quality is spotty.

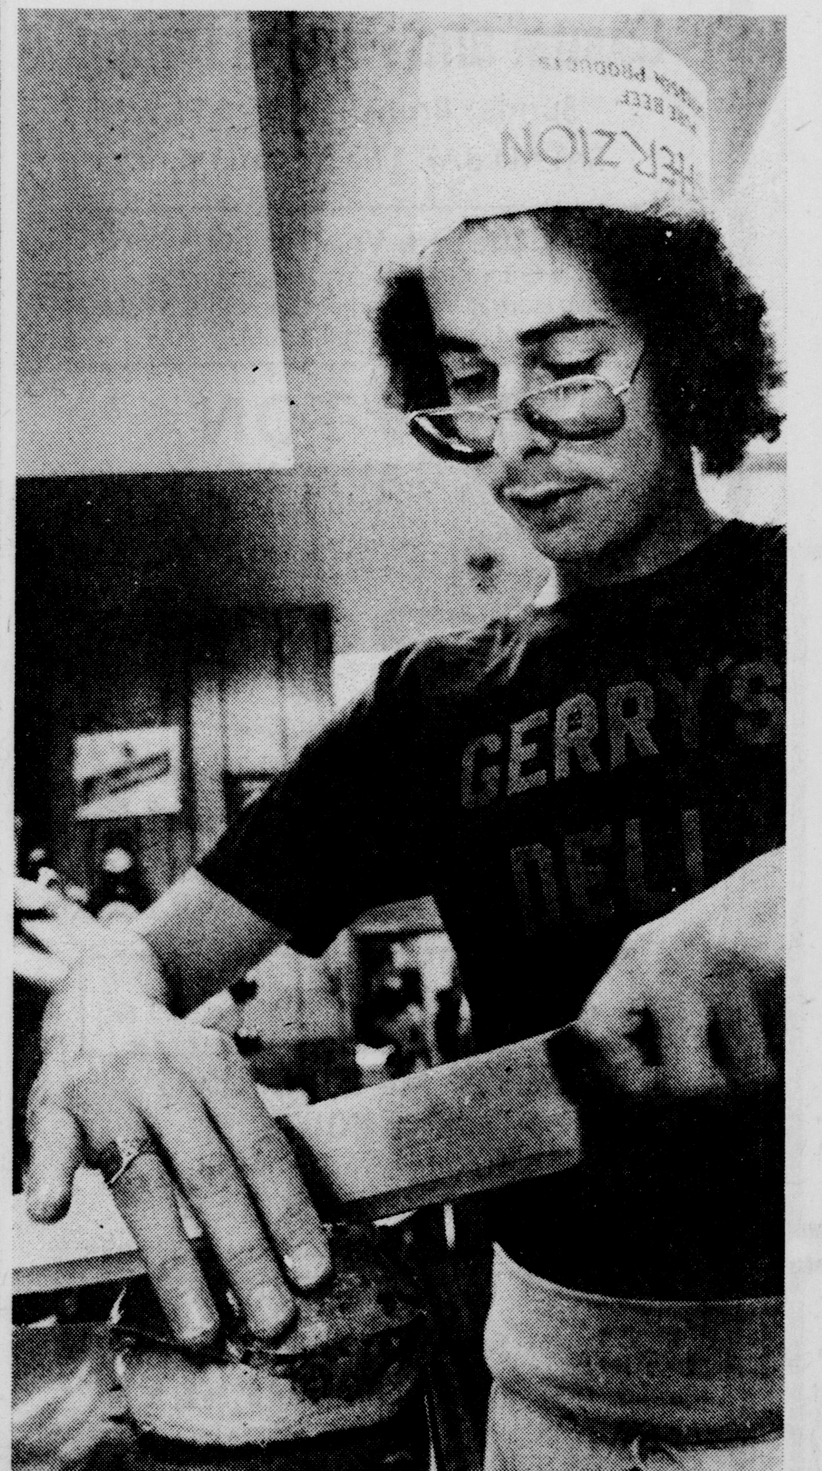
THE MAJOR attraction at 2 Cents Plain is the salad bar, which includes everything from herring and kugel to tzimmes (a sweet stew), chopped liver and fresh fruit. The food was tasty and hearty, but the price of the salad bar a bit steep, $1.50 with a food order and $3.25 by itself. The food at the salad bar, however, was better than what followed.

The corned beef sandwich, though piled high, was a bit tough. It's $2.25 served with potato pancake or fries. The Nova tasted fishy and the bagel was both cold and hard — a disappointment for $2.25.

DESSERT IS INCLUDED with the salad bar, but it's no bargain. Both the banana cream and lemon meringue pies were soggy and left an artificial aftertaste.

But the best news of all for deli lovers is having three spots to compare. That's not a bad start. And lox fanatics can be sure it's only the first of many more to make their way out from the city to the suburbs.

—Lynn Asinof



COMING RIGHT UP . . . one corned beef sandwich on an onion roll. Andy Friedman at Gerry's Deli-Restaurant in Buffalo Grove knows the order well. It's often repeated in a day.

'Final Days' more fact than fiction

by LUISA GINNETTI
(A book review)

It might have been titled "The Unmaking of A President."

That is exactly what unfolds in "The Final Days," Bob Woodward's and Carl Bernstein's controversial new book concerning the dramatic events and characters leading up to the resignation of President Richard Nixon.

Not often are we given an opportunity to glean an inside view of history in the making, but "The Final Days" (Simon and Schuster, now $11.95), offers just such a perspective.

The two Washington Post reporters, whose work in uncovering the Watergate scandal won them a Pulitzer Prize, interviewed almost 400 persons who were directly involved with the Nixon Administration during those last historic days.

Few of those interviewed have disputed the facts or accounts related in the book. Some who have voiced dissent notified the authors beforehand that subsequent denials, especially about sensitive personal matters regarding Nixon, would be issued after the book was printed.

"FINAL DAYS" reads like a novel, though the authors have successfully managed to keep out their own personal biases and judgments. Instead, we get an accurate picture of those central characters in the Nixon administration who at first tried desperately to protect their leader and then, when they realized Nixon's lies had created irreputable damage to his own defense before Congress and the public, worked to put the wheels of resignation in motion.

There is valuable insight into the dilemma of Gen. Alexander Haig, Nixon's chief of staff, who was placed in a precarious position following the resigntions of Nixon's two closest associates, H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman.

During Watergate Haig was caught between loyalty to the President and his duty to keep the administration functioning. In the end, he saw resignation the only satisfactory "out" for the President.

THE TENUOUS SITUATION faced by Nixon's lawyers, J. Fred Buzhardt, Leonard Garment and James St. Clair, is also related well. The book tells how they were forced to urge the resignation route when their client's position became indefensible with the discovery of the damaging June 23, 1972, tape, clearly revealing Nixon's awareness of and participation in a cover-up only a few days after the Watergate break-in.

We get a distasteful picture of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, the man who was elevated to the highest status in the administration, yet the very man who most despised Richard Nixon. Kissinger's loathing of Nixon is related in both words and deeds —the secretary of state initiated his own taping system to record phone calls and had all his phone conversations with Nixon monitored by other staff members and secretaries.

THE BOOK ALSO relates well the activities of Republican Congressional leaders during the scandal; men like Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott and House Minority Leader John Rhodes and Sen. Barry Goldwater, who each realized early the need for resignation to avoid the national catastrophe which would result from a lengthy Senate impeachment trial. Each was also convinced of Nixon's guilt or at least complicity in covering up the scandal, especially after the release of the "smoking pistol" tape of June 23.

Probably the most interesting picture painted in the book is of Richard Nixon himself, the man who ultimately succumbed to the pressures for resignation but who steadfastly maintained his innocence throughout.

Surprisingly, Woodward and Bernstein paint a sympathetic portrait of Nixon. Through his words and actions and the reactions of others around him, the authors reveal Nixon's personal views about Watergate — that he indeed at first intended to use the

The McCartneys

McCartney, Wings come up with an easy-going album

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

"At the Speed of Sound" (Capitol) is the fifth and most band-oriented album yet recorded by Paul McCartney and Wings. McCartney sings lead on only six of eleven songs.

The album has no immediate "grabbers" such as "Jet" or "Band On the Run." There is an over-all light, easy-going feel to the album, with some jazz influences. It is only with repeated listenings one realizes the songs' numerous strengths.

The group's new single, "Silly Love Songs," emerges as one of the album's fun songs with a good lyric and melody that stick in the mind. It features slightly muted horns and strings, as do several other songs, including the opening "Let 'Em In."

FEW SONGS HAVE a rock emphasis, but "Beware My Love" is easily the best that does. The song is not loud, but McCartney stretches his voice and turns in a good guitar solo. McCartney also has written another pretty, simple ballad called "Warm and Beautiful."

When McCartney steps out of the spotlight, it is only rhythm guitarist Denny Laine who really shines. Laine sings fine on his own rock song, "Time to Hide," and "The Note You Never Wrote," which is rather stately with its slow-building strings around the guitar solo.

Drummer Joe English, whose playing is solid throughout the album, gives a creditable vocal on "Must Do Something About It," and Linda McCartney is somewhat effective on "Cook Of the House" which captures a primitive sound by perhaps being made in a kitchen.

If you let this album grow on you, you'll like it despite the lack of any "classic" songs.

THE NEW SANTANA album, "Amigos" (Columbia), has a monkey holding the first Santana album in the corner of the colorful cover painting. It must be meant as a hint that the music inside goes back to the bright Latin-infused rhythmic music of that album rather than Carlos Santana's recent spiritual exercises.

"Amigos" is Santana's most commercially appealing album in years. "Dance, Sister, Dance" should be a monster hit with its rhythms and soaring, floaty instrumental section.

The disco crowds will like the jazz funk of "Let It Shine" with its churning synthesizer and female chorus backing Greg Walker's lead singing. "Take Me With You" emulates the early Santana sound with good guitar work from Santana and congas from Armando Peraza. It is a throbbing instrumental which opens with real force and then slows up.

FOR THOSE WHO have always loved Santana's guitar solos, there is his stunning solo on "Euorpa (Earth's Cry, Heaven's Smile)" which ends with some extremely high-note picking, and his flamenco opening on "Gitano," which then flows into the Latin-flavored rhythms of the very early albums.

This is an excellent return to a very infectious, commercial sound by a band led by one of rock's best guitarists.

"John Travolta" (Midland International) and "Donny & Marie" (Polydor). The Osmonds' album consists of songs sung on their television show. The approach is the typical clean-scrubbed sound that producer Mike Curb always tries for, basically aimed at an early and sub-teen audience, although some parents might be caught in the web of wholesomeness. It is good for what it is but very superficial.

TRAVOLTA, WHO WAS in Broadway's "Grease" before becoming Vinnie Barbarino on "Welcome Back, Kotter," seems serious about his singing and generally does a good job, after a rocky opening, "Let Her In." His versions of "Never Gonna Fall In Love Again" and "A Girl Like You" are good, as is a new song, "Razzamatazz." But he should try for songs with more "bite" and a more distinctive sound next time.

Soundings:

John Travolta (see above review) will be at Woodfield's Grand Mall at 3:30 p.m. next Thursday to greet his fans.

Billboard Magazine reports Bob Dylan and the Rolling Thunder Review is being filmed for September television showing . . . Stevie Wonder's long-awaited two-record set is now due May 13, his birthday . . . Also due soon is a Monty Python set, recorded live in New York.

In the area: Gordon Lightfoot, Sunday, Auditorium Theatre; Harry Belafonte, Thursday through May 16, Mill Run Theatre.

. . . Factual 'Final Days'

CIA to impede the FBI's investigation of the break-in (the June 23 tape) but subsequently called on the investigation to continue no matter where it would lead.

HE WAS CONCERNED about national security during the entire Watergate investigation. According to the authors, the President believed that if there was any cover-up, it was only to protect that security.

However, reportedly, in the end, it was the bleak picture of an impeachment trial he was sure to lose and the concerns of his inner circle of associates — including sons-in-law Edward Cox and David Eisenhower — which caused Richard Nixon to choose the course he most hated, resignation.

There has been criticism that the book delves needlessly into personal matters about Nixon and his family, including his temper bouts, his relationship with his wife, his and Mrs. Nixon's apparent drinking problems and his inability to show outward signs of affection even with his favorite daughter, Julie Eisenhower.

THE CRITICISMS are unfair. The references to personal matters are so few in comparison to the over-all narrative, they are lost in a cursory reading of the book. And when they are brought up, they are totally within context and in keeping with the purpose of the book — to give an account of the facts and emotional concerns which preoccupied the White House during the last days of the Nixon Administration.

Certainly a picture of Richard Nixon's emotional state during that time — the actions of the most powerful man in the world under extreme pressure — are justified in any historic account like "The Final Days."

The book is an excellent piece of history, not hearsay, and should be judged in light of the story it tells — a story of the nation and a man's darkest hour.

"AGENT IN PLACE,"
BY HELEN MacINNES
Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich, $8.95

One evening two men coming from different directions meet at a flag pole in a deserted area of New York City's Central Park. When they separate, one of them continues strolling through the park and is promptly mugged. Police find him lying severely wounded, a sword disguised as a cane discarded nearby.

Both men are Soviet agents. The unexpected mugging complicates a clandestine theft of important papers involving NATO and a highly placed American undercover agent living in Moscow.

Espionage fiction specialist Helen MacInnes has concocted a near perfect opening for her latest tale. She can still beguile the reader with her knowing descriptions of the rituals of the espionage fraternities — the convoluted telephone conversations which mean the opposite of what they seem, codes that depend on the use of Spengler's "Decline Of The West," the stilted relationships among agents.

SHE WRITES IN such a civilized manner about such reasonable people that when violence and danger suddenly take over the story, the shock is like a body blow.

But as the scene shifts to the South of France, she gets herelf mired in a confusing onslaught of events as an English agent struggles to protect the spy who has fled from Russia. An American journalist and his beautiful wife add to the complications.

Still, "Agent In Place" is one of Miss MacInnes' better spy novels. Smooth and convincing, it will hold the reader through all its twists and turns.

Director Lina Wertmuller

Hits again with 'Beauties'

by DAVID DUGAS
(a review)

A series of films shown in this country only in the past year has made Italy's Lina Wertmuller the most prominent new European director of the 1970s.

Justifying that attention, she now has come forth with "Seven Beauties," a hugely ambitious, brilliantly executed and outrageously funny picture that far surpasses the recent work of her own idol and teacher, Federico Fellini.

"Seven Beauties" derives its title from Tarot-like Italian playing cards in which the most valuable card is the gold seven, the "settebello." In popular parlance it means Number One (The deluxe Rome-Milan train is called the Settebello).

The name is applied with irony in "Seven Beauties" to Giancarlo Gainnini because, handsome dog that he is, he's an ineffectual crook, a nobody, and because he happens to have seven dumpy sisters.

AFTER INTRODUCTORY footage of Mussolini and Hitler shaking hands and a quick montage of World War II newsreels, "Seven Beauties" picks up the strutting Giannini at home in Naples of the mid-1930s. When he avenges his eldest sister's honor by poisoning the man who made her a whore, he lands in prison. From there he accidentally manages his transfer to a madhouse, from which he is freed to join the Italian army.

In Germany, he deserts and is sent to a Nazi prison camp. By feigning sexual attraction to its gross female commandant, he survives the war and returns home to liberated Naples only to find all his sisters, now peroxided blondes, have become whores along with his previously innocent young sweetheart.

There is much in "Seven Beauties" to remind one of Wertmuller's highly original earlier films. This is the fifth of her seven pictures to be seen in this country and it is by far her most challenging and best work.

GIANNINI ALREADY has become Europe's most outstanding new actor with his performances in Wertmuller's "Love and Anarchy," "The Seduction of Mimi" and "Swept Away." As the weteyed, tragicomic clown of "Seven Beauties" he is overwhelming.

The rest of the cast, much of it familiar from Wertmuller's other pictures, is perfect, with Fernando Rey as a welcomed addition and Shirley Stoler an utter surprise as the masochistic commandant. The Brooklyn-born actress previously was seen as a madam in "Klute" and as the murderous wife of "The Honeymoon Killers."

As usual, Wertmuller has written her own abrasive script (It is shown in Italian with English subtitles), complemented by dazzling camera work, art direction by her husband, painter Enrico Job, and musical score. It is the picture against which all of this year's imports will be judged.

"Seven Beauties" is rated (R).

Western film series at museum

A film series entitled "The Western Film," a survey of the classic examples and a capsule history of the western's early development, will be presented at the Museum of Contemporary Art on Tuesdays at 6 p.m., from May 4 through June 15.

The series begins Tuesday with two famous and influential shorts of Edwin S. Porter, the semi-documentary "Life of an American Cowboy" and "The Great Train Robbery." The climactic last reel of "The Spoilers," with one of the most effective gun fights in film history, precedes "Straight Shooting," the first feature of western director John Ford.

The museum is located at 237 E. Ontario St., Chicago.

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and nonmembers, $1 for members and students. Further information is available at 943-7755.

'6 RMS RIV VU'

Piece of froth that shines

by LOIS HENDERLONG
(A review)

Put an aging Andy Hardy and Doris Day together and what do you get? Undoubtedly, one of the most inept love affairs imaginable, and quite possibly one of the funniest.

"6 Rms Riv Vu," the Arlington Heights Village Theatre's current production, gives us just such a combination — youth-at-heart, middle-aged hero who is about as subtle as a 16-year-old when it comes to making passes and who tries to seduce a very virtuous lady by asking permission.

Our overgrown Andy has been accidentally locked in a vacant apartment with fair Doris, and after a few formalities the two advance to uneasy flirting and equally uneasy confessions about the traumas of middle-aged chastity. Both are married, very securely and to very proper spouses, of course. The brief encounter becomes their one chance to have a fling, and so they do, only to find what they knew all along — that the love affair has to end before it ever really gets off the ground.

BOB RANDALL'S play is deft, slick, frequently funny, and occasionally, in its rare flashes of honesty, disarmingly engaging. The topical jokes are laid on a bit too thick — "I even cry for the lady on TV whose wash isn't bright enough," says hero Paul in one of the play's many gibes at topics so current that the play will probably date itself in short order.

But taken for what it is, a piece of froth with plenty of spirit, "6 Rms Riv Vu" is ingratiating. It is an apt vehicle for the Village Theatre's resources and well within the group's abilities. Minor quibbles aside — somebody, tone down the sound effects during the storm scene, so we can hear the dialog — an evening with this show is first-rate.

Though there are a few nice comic bits for minor characters, played to the hilt by Les Griffith and Jean Kay, the piece is really a two-person ensemble that hhinges on the acting of these impromptu lovers, Anne Miller and Paul Friedman. They have to convince us that this situation can and does happen within the space of a few hours — and they do.

PAT PIPER has Anne down pat, all the way to the nervous, unsure mannerisms like the ruffling of her hair with a quick flick of the hand each time she's faced with a problem she can't quite face. As for Paul, he's an insecure Casanova; give him an inch and he'll take . . . well, an inch. Hank de Groh plays him with the right touch of wistful naivete.

A note to director Tom Ventriss, whose production is otherwise clean and uncluttered: Please keep Ms. Piper from slinging her oversized purse above her head in all sorts of complicated maneuvers. She doesn't look comfortable or natural doing it, and chances are she's going to brain herself.

Village Theatre is presenting "6 Rms Riv Vu" again tonight and Saturday. See Billboard listing.

Touring companies bring two plays to Arlington

Arlington Heights Bicentennial Commission is sponsoring local performances by two theater companies chosen for the Illinois Arts Council's Bicentennial Theater Tour.

"Dandelion Wine," a nostalgic look at a crucial summer in the life of a 12-year-old boy ini 1928, will be staged tonight at St. Viator High School auditorium by the Goodman Theatre Company.

Arlington Heights is one of 17 communities in the state in which the play will be seen.

The "Dandelion Wine" of the title is the brew which is also a special part of the summer, allowing the magic of the season to be caught and "stoppered" and then opened on a January day.

THE ORGANIC Theatre's "Adventures of Huckleberry Finn" comes to Arlington Heights Friday, May 7, to be presented at 8 p.m. also in St. Viator's auditorium.

In the cast is a former Arlington Heights resident, Keith Szarabajka, who graduated from Hersey High in 1971. Recipient of Best Actor awards at Hersey in both his junior and senior years, he also won the Senior Dramatics award.

Later, Keith appeared in "Sweet Bird of Youth" with the Des Plaines Theatre Guild.

In "Huck Finn" he plays Tom Sawyer.

TICKETS TO both plays are $3.50 for adults and $1.75 for students. Groups from high schools and area colleges are especially encouraged to attend. Tickets can be obtained at St. Viator High or by calling 253-1703.

Proceeds from the two performances go to the Arlington Heights Park District, Library, Historical Society and the Beautification Council.

Take your choice: four opening nights on May 7

Area theater-goers will have a choice of four opening nights to attend next Friday, May 7, in the Northwest suburbs. Two are musicals, one an adult comedy and the other an Edward Albee drama, all being staged by community theater.

A new musical comedy, "Woman Overboard," by playwrights Jack Sharkey, Elk Grove Village, and David Reiser, Palatine, will have its world premiere in Des Plaines. Music On Stage, Inc., is presenting the musical three Fridays and Saturdays through May 22 at 8:30 p.m. in Maryville's Gym Theatre, Central and River Roads.

CAST MEMBERS from the Northwest suburbs are Pete Piper, Sharon McManus, Pat Spilotro and Joe Schaedel, all of Arlington Heights; Venus Miller and Marguerite Dietrich, Prospect Heights; Jan DeCosola, Myrtle Donovan and Al Carlson, Wheeling; Jim Curren, Bob and Marge Mangelsdorf, Des Plaines; Gail Yokubinas and Kathleen Lubinski, Palatine; and Debby Zdunek, Mount Prospect.

Ed Sauer, Des Plaines, is directing, with Toni Higgins, Arlington Heights, choreographer; Jeanne Stillman, Palatine, accompanist; and Stan Louiseau, Rolling Meadows, orchestra director.

All seats are $2.50. Reservations can be made at 253-6316 or 392-7996.

THE OTHER musical, "Jacques Brel Is Alive and Well and Living in Paris," will be staged by Des Plainies Theatre Guild three Fridays and Saturdays, concluding with an added performance Sunday, May 23, all at the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St., Des Plaines. Friday and Saturday shows are at 8:30 p.m., Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Interpreting 25 songs of the singer-writer Jacques Brel are Tim Burke of Elk Grove Village; Michael Kalinyen, Des Plaines; Karen Mason and Betty Myers, Mount Prospect; and Joel Cohen, Niles, Lynn Jessen, Arlington Heights, is directing; Mary Udell, Glenview, is producer; Susan Kalinyen, Des Plaines, accompanist.

Tickets are $3.50 Fridays and Sunday, with students and senior citizens at $1.75. All seats on Saturdays are $4. Reservations should be made at 296-1211 between noon and 8 p.m.

THE GUILD Players of Hoffman Estates have chosen the Edward Albee drama, "Everything in the Garden," to wind up their 17th year. They now have their own stage, thanks to Hoffman Estates Park District, at Vogelei Barn Theatre, 650 W. Higgins Rd.

"Everything in the Garden" is directed by Joseph McAuliffe of Schaumburg, assisted by Jan Boutelle, Hoffman Estates. It is produced in memory of Ken Boutelle, who originally suggested and planned to direct the play before his death last summer.

"GARDEN" WILL BE staged May 7, 8, 14 and 15 at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are $2.50 adults, $1.25 students and senior citizens, available at 885-3998.

Cast members from the area include Gary May, Elena Ruane, Peggie Payne and Elayne Letraunik, all of Schaumburg; Steve Vidmar and Arthur Clevenger, Hoffman Estates; Sandy Rode, Elk Grove Village; and Bill Lingren, Palatine.

FOR THOSE WITH a taste for an adult comedy, The Players of Schaumburg are producing "The Mind With the Dirty Man" at Limelight Theatre, 1165 Tower Rd., Schaumburg. This is a departure from the group's usual family-type entertainment, appealing instead to mature audiences.

The play will be presented three weekends, Friday through Sunday, with the final performance May 23. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. except Sundays at 7:30.

Tickets, $2.75 for students and senior citizens and $3.50 for adults, can be reserved at 695-3237.

REHEARSING A SCENE from adult comedy "The Mind With the Dirty Man" are Ken Freehill (at rear), Bob Fabino and Sonja Leraas, featured in The Players of Schaumburg production opening May 7 for three weekends at Limelight Theatre, Schaumburg.

Disney happenings

Kids can find out what's new in Disney World in Florida from Susie O'Hare, a good-will Disney ambassador, who will appear Sunday on "Herman the Hermit Clown Reads the Funnies" radio show, WWMM, 8:30-10 a.m. Also being interviewed is Mickey Mouse.

Panovs a freedom symbol

by LYNN ASINOF
(A review)

Valery and Galina Panov are symbols of the triumph of artistry over government and politics. As such, they hold a special place in the hearts of American dance audiences.

Their performance in Chicago last weekend, however, showed that they are more important as artistic symbols than as major dance figures.

It's not that they can't dance, mind you. Valery is a great character dancer with an effusive personality. Galina ranks a a good soloist who urns with precision and seems suspended when she leaps.

But the two alone are not strong enough to present a full evening of ballet and keep the audience interested and satisfied. They need to be properly packaged.

The Eglevsky Ballet, a Long Island troupe, was supposed to fill in the gaps in the program by providing larger ballets. The dancers, however, lacked energy, and the result was a spotty program.

DURING THE FLAT and unexciting performances by the Eglevsky Ballet, the audience dozed while waiting for the Panovs to return. By the end of the evening, everyone was tired of being awakened.

The Panovs seem to be repaying a debt to the American public for its role in their 1974 emigration from the Soviet Union to Israel. The two fought a two-year battle against Soviet authorities before being allowed to leave and were aided in their struggle by the international artistic and political communities.

They are good dancers, but they are not among the ranks of the great. It is therefore somewhat annoying that their performances create such a hoopla when the progam is so short on substance.

THE EVENING GAVE Chicago its first look at Valery's choreography in "Albinoni Adagio," a flowing prayer piece that emphasized the Panovs' partnering abilities Galina moved through lift and carrys like an extension of Valery's body, creating unity and almost a tactile smoothness. But the piece suffered from dry spots where the movements were stilted.

The highpoint of the evening was the Panovs' performance of the "Harlequinade" pas de deux, which they performed at last year's Chicago Ballet gala. The piece allows Valery to ham it up, as he so loves to do, with playful leaps and foppish poses. Galina got to show off her turns, both fouette and pique, and the audience loved it.

THE EGLEVSKY BALLET did some dismal things to the delightful "Concerto Barocco" by Balanchine. Jane Miller, the company's principal dancer, provided the only relief from the generally uninspired dancing. She at least had a light foot and graceful lines, which unfortunately accented the lack of animation in the rest of the company.

New sculpture for Chicago

A major sculpture for Chicago has been commissioned in celebration of the nation's 200th anniversary. Designed by artist Isamu Noguchi of New York, the work will be placed in a reflecting pool facing Grant Park in front of the new east buildings under construction at the Art Institute.

It will be built of two separate forms of granite, 40 feet high, with water flowing around it.

"The Noguchi will add to the Chicago's already rich representation in modern sculpture which includes the works of Henry Moore, Picasso, Calder, Richard Hunt and Chagall," said James W. Alsdorf, chairman of the Art Institute, in making the announcement.

Band salutes Bicentennial the third concert of the season for Palatine Concert Band will salute the nation's Bicentennial. The performance is Sunday, May 9, at 3:30 in the First United Methodist Church, 123 N. Plum Grove.

The entire program will consist of the music of American composers, to be appropriately performed in the Fine Arts Center of the 119-year-old Palatine church.

Appearing with band accompaniment will be the winner of the band's first annual solo contest, which is open to outstanding high school musicians in the Palatine area.

Palatine Concert Band is a 60-member organization of volunteer adult musicians from the Northwest suburbs. Admission to the May 9 concert is $1.50 for adults and free for children under 12.

Brubeck concert May 8 at Harper

Dave Brubeck with "Two Generations of Brubeck" is coming to Harper College Saturday, May 8, for an 8 p.m. concert. Appearing with the jazz artist are his sons, Darius on keyboard, Chris on electric bass and trombone, and Danny on drums.

The show will be held in the college center lounge in Palatine. Tickets are $3 for the public and $2 for Harper students and staff. They should be purchased in advance in the Student Activities Office, Building A, Room 336.

Not easy to outdo 'Papa's Picture'

Night out

by Genie Campbell

To label anything the best is like walking a tight rope. Unless you know exactly what you're doing, you're likely to fall flat on your face.

But "UNDER PAPA'S PICTURE" at DRURY LANE NORTH is the best — leastway the best production I've caught yet at the Lincolnshire Marriott Resort.

Now I'll admit prior competition has been pretty weak. George Hamilton put most people to sleep in "Come Blow Your Horn," and neither Forrest Tucker or Chuck Connors did much better in their respective vehicles, "The Confidence Game" and "Fallen Angels."

"Sunday in the Park" was considered cute because of fine direction, but billed star Sandra Dee came off like a foolish school girl.

However, "Under Papa's Picture" is a dinner/theater's commercial dream — relaxed, contemporary, exceedingly delightful theater at no risk to a theatergoer's expectations and standards. It is both palatable and artistically sound. And that's what all dinner/theaters strive for, but rarely achieve.

EVE ARDEN in the starring role doesn't hurt either. But give credit where it is due — to the entire cast including her husband, BROOKS WEST, who also directed the show.

"Under Papa's Picture" is like a Neil Simon blockbuster only better. It replaces the too often cooing-sweet, slightly risque (only to the point it won't offend anybody) dialog with good-natured sarcasm dropped with such freshness and surprise the audience is continually caught off guard. And that's what makes this comedy not only alive, but fun besides.

Eve Arden turns the tables as a middle-aged widowed mother who arrives in a most uncompromising situation to visit her son and his family. It seems she met an artistic bohemian in a swank San Francisco bar and the two really hit it off.

"If this was a horse race, I'd be at the third gate" is how she describes her condition.

But her son John, played to the hilt by DAVID RUPPRECHT, a young executive on his way up who has always considered his mother beyond reproached, is appalled. John is a nervous wreck anyhow, and this nearly pushes him over the brink. He'd make the most patient person go literally mad.

GLORIA LYNN in the process of being both referee and understanding daughter-in-law, offers a fashion show on stage besides, and Eve Arden is, well, just her natural, expressive dry-witted self. She's woven into the play as a star should be, an important asset and not just as a coverup for stale material.

Brooks West makes a striking appearance as her Italian lover who drives John absolutely wacko.

Their confrontation is one of the most amusing scenes in the play.

But standing out in a way no other member of the cast has even the opportunity to do is ESTER SUTHERLAND in the role of the housekeeper, Cleana, who fills in the audience on what's taking place between scenes via very one-sided gossipy telephone conversations with her son. She's terrific.

Having already played Drury Lane East and South, "Under Papa's Picture" is at Lincolnshire through May and most of June. I'm not sure where this little gem by Joe Connelly and George Tibbles originated, but enjoy it while it lasts.

Plan gardens

by ALLAN and SHEILA SWENSON
NEA Garden Columnists

It's amazing how a bit of advance planning can help you grow a more fruitful garden. It really pays to plot your rows and hills; your beds and borders on a graph well before you can get outside to do the actual planting.

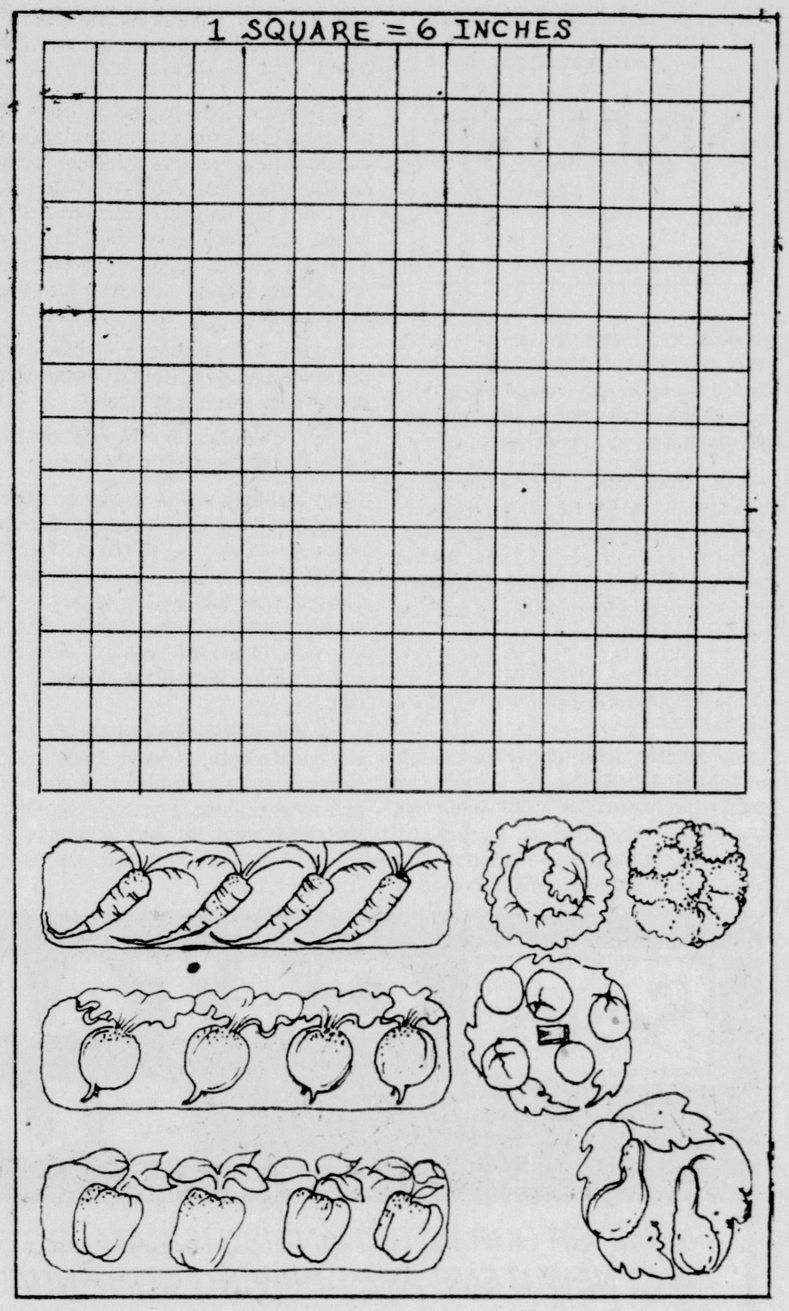
To help you map out your own gardening success this year, we have designed this simple, useful and effective garden planning kit. Just cut it out or recreate it on graph paper yourself.

Then, save our column that gives you details on spacing of vegetable varieties. You can get the same information from the backs of seed packets.

Assume one square equals six inches. Cut out the accompanying sample sketches of rows and hills which represent the most commonly grown vegetables. Duplicate them if you like.

Then, simply place them on your graph paper and move them around if necessary until you decide where each variety should be planted. A little planning now saves problems later.

After all, you can move furniture here and there. But once you plant, it's somewh))at difficult to change your mind.



Guest gardener

By Mike Loewenherz of Amlings Flowerland

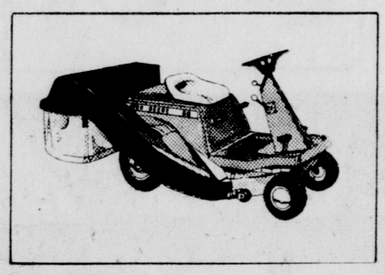
Trees provide one of the most inexpensive as well as one of the most effective means to improve the appearance of your property. From the practical point of view, trees will usually increase property values considerably. When you plant a tree, you also plant shade, or shape, or background, or screening or color.

The use that you intend for your tree and the location in which you will plant it should guide you in its selection. Consider whether the mature form of a tree is appropriate to its intended use. A broad-spreading and low-hanging tree may be ideal in the yard, but would not be satisfactory along a driveway. A slim upright tree may be perfect for lining driveways, but of little use for shading a patio.

If you are not familiar with the mature form of trees, consult a local nurseryman, landscape contractor, garden center or landscape architect. Always purchase your trees from reputable sources where you can not only get the correct advice and guidance in selecting the proper tree, but the supplier, in most cases, will also guarantee the tree for a specified period of time, usually the first year after planting.

Beautification begins at home. In this Bicentennial year, you can assure America's Beautification by making your own property attractive and keeping it that way — by planting a tree.



SEE THIS riding mower and a complete line of John Deere equipment at The Boat Supermarket's John Deere Grand Opening celebration today, Saturday and Sunday. The Boat Supermarket, an authorized John Deere dealer, carries a complete line of John Deere lawn care products as well as leisure accessories such as bicycles and BBQ grills. Special low prices, drawings for over $400 in gift certificates for use at the boat Supermarket and refreshments will be offered during the three-day celebration. Hours are 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. today, 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Sunday. The Boat Supermarket is located at 3298 Kirchoff Rd. in the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center.

Gardening is good therapy

In recent years, a growing number of doctors, have prescribed gardening as therapy for their patients. Social workers, too, find that city vegetable gardens keep youngsters happy, creative, and out of mischief.

Doctors, also, heed their own good advice. In a recent survey by the American Medical Association, it was noted that 137,500 of our nation's physicians find relaxation in gardening — over 50 per cent more than play golf!

It doesn't take much for nature to produce her bountiful crops of plump, fresh vegetables loaded with vitamins and good flavor. And where nature leaves off, the gardener steps in to water, fertilize or spray — remedying the problems of drought, poor soil, bugs and plant disease.

One word of warning — gardening can be habit forming. Once you have experienced the satisfaction of bringing your first home-grown vegetables to the table, you are hooked. And you and your family are bound to live happier and healthier ever after!

Answers to garden problems

Q. Can pests really decrease my vegetable yield?

A. Definitely. Dramatic proof was shown in side-by-side test plots of protected and unprotected vegetable crops. In 1972, under the supervision of the University of Illinois, a plot of cabbage left to grow without care produced a crop of no commercial value. the plot next to it, which was kept weed-free and treated with chemicals to keep out pests, yielded a crop worth $640. In the same garden test, broccoli raised in an untreated plot would have had to sell in the grocery store for $14 a pound!

Q. What exactly are pesticides?

A. Pesticides are chemicals formulated to control pests — any harmful insects or disease. The word pesticide is an umbrella term, encompassing many types of control substances. The most common ones are insecticides for insects, herbicides for weeds, and fungicides for fungus. Almost all bathroom cleaners, sanitizers and disinfectants are classed as pesticides by the U.S. government.

Q. Are pesticides safe for me to use?

A. Every pesticide on your dealer's shelf has been tested and approved for use in the home garden by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Directions for use come with each package and should be followed carefully. The most common pesticides for use in the home garden are non-persistent. This means they will lose their effectiveness in a day to two weeks.

Q. How do I know when I have a pest problem.?

A. You should inspect your garden at least once a week. Look under leaves, particularly, for insects and signs of plant disease. Once you identify the problem, start treating it immediately.

Q. How can I determine what my pest problem is?

A. The easiest way is to ask someone experienced in gardening — your neighbor or your garden supply deler. bug or the damaged part of the plant. Another dependable source of information is your state extension service. Or, refer to a basic gardening book that describes pest problems and shows pictures of them.

Q. How do I select the right pesticide?

A. Once you know the problem, the selection of the specific spray is easy; it's probably one of those mentioned below in the question concerning useful pesticides.

Q. Must I wait till I have a problem — isn't there a preventive method for controlling pests and protecting my vegetables?

A. Yes, there is a preventive method. An effective way to keep your garden pest-free is to spray regularly every seven to 14 days. Apply an all purpose spray to revent bugs and disease from getting a start.

Q. What pesticides am I most likely to find useful?

A. Three insecticides will handle most of your garden insect problems. Malathion and Sevin for insects on plants; Diazinon for insects in the soil as well as plants. For controlling leaf diseases, use Maneb or Captan. There are also all-purpose pesticides which are one formulation containing a mixture of various chemicals that treat all the most common problems with one application.

Q. What kind of sprayer should I use?

A. Generally, this depends on the size of your garden and your personal preferences. Like any other tool, a good sprayer is an investment that will pay back in greater yields from more effective pest control and long, dependable service.

It is absolutely important that you choose a sprayer that applies spray correctly. (Half the battle is controlling pests is identifying the problem and selecting the right spray; the other half depends on how good a spraying job you do.)

For the average size garden, a 1½ to four gallon compression sprayer is recommended. This sprayer gives you greatest control five ways. You can measure and mix the proportion of spray concentrate to water exactly as recommended.

You control the spray pressure — high for fine mist, low for coarse spray, whichever is needed.

You have instant on-off control, allowing you to cover plants with a light coat, spraying just to the point of run-off, without drenching or waste.

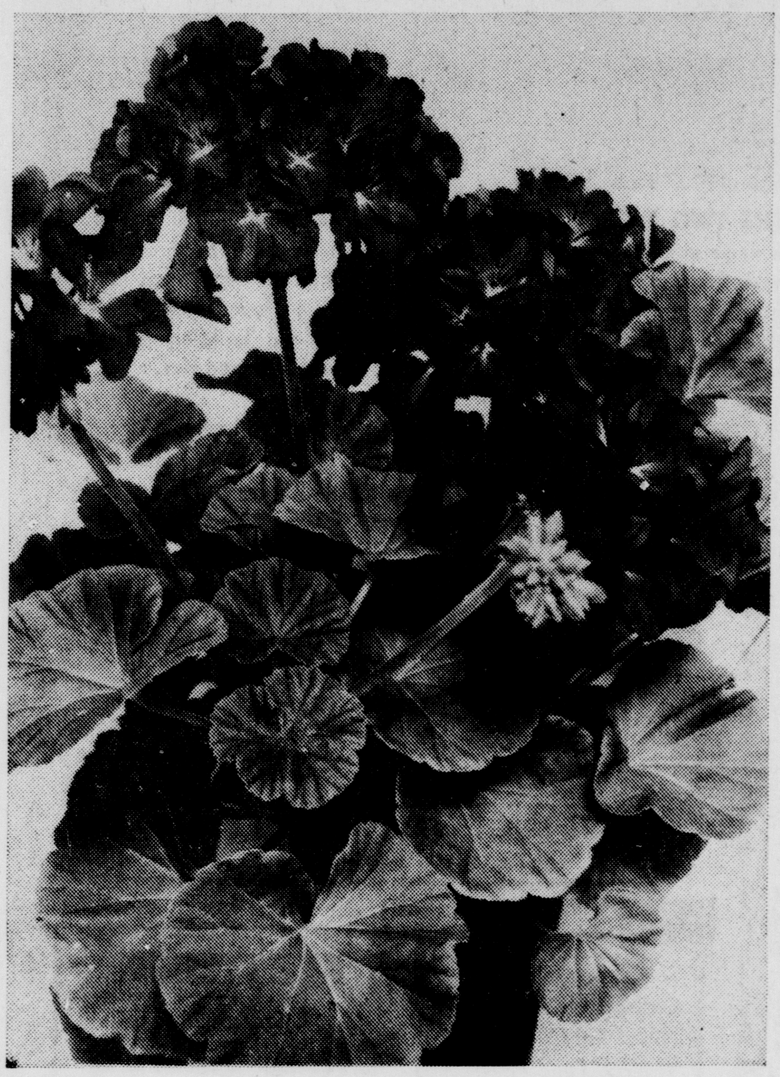
With the long spray hose and extension, you can reach out-of-the-way spots, place the spray right where it's needed, especially underleaf.

You can adjust nozzle from fine mist to coarse or long-range spray. Or change nozzle to apply a flat, fan-type spray.

If you prefer extra ease with most of the same features of the compression sprayer, you'll like a cordless electric sprayer.

For larger gardens, a big-capacity power sprayer will do the job with ease and fast coverage.

When dust is recommended, use a duster with adjustable nozzle and long extension. This allows you to put the dust right whre it's needed.



GERANIUMS grown from seed are constantly being improved, providing gardeners with more compact and floriferous plants.

Fertilize shade trees for better growth

Fertilizing young shade trees will increase growth and speed establishment, says Floyd Giles, University of Illinois Extension horticulturist. Older trees also need fertilizer to lessen damage from insects and disease.

Shade and flowering trees should be fertilized in early spring when the buds begin to swell. Avoid mid-summer fertilizing which may stimulate new vegetative growth late in the season.

Nitrogen is the most important nutrient for woody plants, Giles says. If trees show short annual growth, sparse foliage, or light green or yellow leaves, nitrogen fertilizer is needed.

Trees usually get enough other required nutrients for normal growth. But, if a soil test shows that phosphorus and potassium are low, use a mixed grade of fertilizer such as 10-10-10, 16-8-8 or 20-10-5. If the soil is high in phosphorus and potassium, use a straight nitrogen fertilizer such as 21-0-0, 33-0-0 or 45-0-0.

Perforated polyethylene fertilizer packets for trees and shrubs are now available, Giles says. A single packet will supply a tree or shrub with sufficient plant nutrients for up to five years. The packet can be placed in the hole at planting time or buried near the root system of an established tree.

Except for packet fertilizer, Giles warns, don't use fertilizer directly on the soil or in the planting hole. Instead, place a mixture of peat moss compost and soil in the planting hole to improve aeration and moisture-holding capacity.

Applying fertilizer to established trees requires a special techiques, Giles says. Fertilizer should be applied in the feeder root area. The feeder roots are usually in the top foot or two of soil and extend just beyond the spread of the branches.

Generally, the fertilizer should be placed in holes about two feet apart within the feed root area. Apply one to two pounds (or one to two pints) of fertilizer per inch of trunk diameter.

Make imaginary circles at two-foot intervals under the tree, extending beyond the outermost branches. With a crowbar or soil probe, make holes two feet apart on these circles. The holes should be 12 to 15 inches deep for small trees and 18 inches deep for large trees. Divide the fertilizer evenly among the holes and then fill each hole with soil or peat moss to avoid damaging existing turf.

Want a finer lawn? Then read this!

Warren' research facilities, established twenty years ago, have under observation over 1,000 strains and species of grasses. Some of these grasses have been patented and are available to the public in various parts of the United States and Europe.

About ten years ago one of these new grasses...

BenSun BRAND (A-34)

KENTUCKY BLUEGRASS

. . . was introduced throughout the country. Its performance has proven to be outstanding for these reasons:

- Rated first in shade tolerance (up to 65%) yet grows vigorously in full sunlight.
- Rated first in wear tolerance by a university doing turfgrass research. (Of eighteen top bluegrasses tested, for golf course use, BenSun (A-34) was the only grass to receive an excellent rating.)
- Quick to recover when injured and is used extensively on athletic fields and golf courses.
- Does well in most soils, and is highly drought resistant.
- Thrives in hot or cold climates, at high or low altitudes.
- Requires less fertilizer to keep it healthy.
- Can be mowed down to ½ inch when planted in sunlight.
- One pound of seed will plant 2,000 sq. ft. of new lawn area at a cost of only ⅓¢ per square foot.
- BenSun (A-34) Lawngrass Seed carries this guarantee: "If you are not satisfied with the results obtained from this seed, return the empty box with proof of purchase within 6 months to Warren's Turf Nursery, Inc. You will be supplied with more seed or your money will be refunded, your choice".

Available as Sod, Sod Plugs and Seed!

To keep your lawn green and healthy use WARREN'S LAWN FOOD, specially formulated (10-8-4 analysis for proper balance) to give your lawn the proper food nutrients. Use the lawn food the grass professionals use.

Shortcuts can improve results

Garden shortcuts can improve garden results. James E. Schuster, University of Illinois Extension horticulturist says to begin by selecting the best varieties to assure abundant yields of top quality vegetables. These varieties have proven to be productive and in many cases are resistant to troublesome diseases. Losses from wilt and blossom end rot of tomatoes and wilt of cabbage can be prevented by choosing resistant varieties. But to get the varieties you want, you may have to obtain seed from more than one catalog or greenhouse, says Schuster.

Intercropping fast-and slow-growing vegetables can increase your efficiency of production if space is limited. As fast-growing vegetables mature, they can be removed to make room for the slower-growing ones.

Leaf lettuce, green onions and radishes are examples of fast-growing vegetables that can be planted between tomatoes, cabbage and eggplant. Radishes mixed with carrots mark the row, as well as thin the carrots, once the radishes are harvested.

Successive plantings are another way to provide a supply of fresh vegetables throughout the season. Schuster suggests planting radishes at 7 to 10-day intervals, snap beans at two-to three-week intervals, and sweet corn after the preceding planting has developed three to four leaves. You can also plant a second vegetable after the first one has matured and has been harvested. For example, you might plant beans or summer squash following early peas or lettuce. Or, consider, late plantings of tomatoes, cabbage, and broccoli for harvest during the fall.

Mulch vegetables in the home garden whenever possible, says Schuster. Either organic materials or plastic films may be used for mulching. Use black polyethylene film to control weeds in the row and to warm the soil to promote early growth of warm-season vegetables like cucumbers, watermelons, tomatoes, eggplant and beans. But, remember to remove the plastic from the garden at the end of the season.

Organic mulches, on the other hand, tend to cool rather than warm the soil. Therefore, organic materials, such as corn cobs and straw, should be applied in the spring after the plants have good growth and are well established for warm season crops like tomatoes. In addition, organic mulches will benefit late, hot-weather plantings of most garden vegetables. Following the growing season, these organic materials can be worked into the soil to add to the tilth.

Plants take considerably less space grown "in the air" rather than as a vine that sprawls on the ground. Stack recommends growing tomatoes in wire cages or tying them to individual stakes. Pole beans can be trained on a trellis or fence. Such training will allow you to grow more vegetables in a minimum space.

THE TWO WORST situations for a vegetable garden are shade and waterlogged soil. Vegetables must have good drainage around their roots, and at least six hours direct sunlight each day. If the only area available to you is a low spot with poor drainage the site can be improved by laying down a foundation of crushed stones and building up a raised bed with railroad ties.

Fool Mother Nature— and help your garden

There are more adventures to gardening than you may think — and to succeed with raising your late crops, you may have to fool Mother Nature.

If you want to lengthen your growing season, make it cooler or warmer, wetter or drier, provide more sun or special protection from the wind, there are some tested ideas which can help you.

Problem: You are intent on planting corn in a shaded back yard, but the sun is blocked in both morning and the afternoon.

Solution: Use panels of reflective metalized plastic, glued to plywood panels, and hinged to a wooden frame. Placed on the east and west sides of the planted area, the panels can effectively intensify solar energy and help produce food in an otherwise shady place. Panels with an adjustable angle of reflection are more efficient than simply using aluminum foil, stapled to plastic.

Problem: You want to make the most of a small amount of space, get the most out of the sun and, in turn, out of your fruit trees or vining vegetables.

Solution: Draw on the experience of European gardeners and train your fruit trees against a wall, preferably a light colored wall. From the reflected light and increased heat by the wall, fruit will ripen that will not mature in the open.

Trellis training of plants (with walls, fences or freestanding panels) helps conserve precious space. It also makes the most efficient use of light and heat. The idea that you can enjoy three or four varieties of dwarf apples on a 15 foot long trellis makes good space saving sense. . . . Many gardeners are successful with standard trees for this type of gardening. However, the dwarf varieties are more adaptable to trellis training." And as an added bonus, trellis training also helps expand the growing season by placing plants where there is more light and heat.

Buy garden gadgets cautiously

With the growing season at hand, stores are bringing in a host of new garden gadgets. For the sensible shopper, however, it pays to examine your needs and keep convenience as well as cost in mind.

Sometimes the most convenient sprayer is available at lower cost.

For those who need a highly portable sprayer to get at such hard-to-reach areas as tall trees, the low-cost "slide" sprayer is actually far more convenient and costs less than most conventional compression tank sprayers.

This lightweight device pumps your pre-mixed solution from a household bucket, shoots up to 40 feet high and may include swivel nozzle to reach underneath and behind shrubs close to buildings, too. Its brass construction will not rust, a problem common to tank sprayers, and it is compact for easy storage.

Why your peonies don't bloom

by BILL MEACHEM

A number of readers have written to me about their peonies that do not bloom. In most cases the plants had been transplanted a year or so earlier.

Peonies are very fussy about how they are planted. They show their resentment of improper planting by refusing to bloom. I would guess that in more than 90 per cent of the cases of non-blooming peonies the reason is improper planting.

The key to planting peonies is getting the eye or crown at the proper depth below the surface. If peonies are planted too shallow or too deep, they will not bloom.

Peonies are best transplanted in the fall after the foliage has completely died down and they are dormant. You will note that peonies will die back much earlier than many other perennial plants.

When planting or transplanting you must be sure that the eye or crown is exactly one inch below the surface. In most cases with gardening you can guess at depths. Not so with peonies. Actually use a ruler. Here's how.

Dig your hole for the peony about a foot deep and the same in diameter. Put the soil aside and mix it with equal parts of peat moss or compost. This is important because the peony may be in the same spot for many years so you need to put the roots in good soil.

Now place a stick across the hole. Hold your peony with one hand and the ruler with the other. Adjust the plant so it is exactly one inch below the stick. Then replace the enriched soil around the roots.

Another peony problem is having buds form that turn black when they get to be the size of a pea. This is botrytis disease. You can keep this in check by removing all the leaves from around the plant in the fall when they die. Neatness counts.

You'll see ants crawling over the buds, too. The ants are there to get the sweet nectar given off by the buds. Spraying with an aerosol will control the ants.

Planted properly and given good sanitation, a peony can give garden pleasure for many many years. A plant in the same spot for 50 years is not uncommon.

Ladybug tale

"Ladybug, ladybug fly away home, your house is on fire, your children alone." This variation of a verse made up many years ago by children in England is still popular throughout the world. According to legend, the song was sung when English farmers had harvested the hops and burned the vines presumably still filled with aphids — and ladybug children!

Keep new plants in isolation

by JANET TACA

New plants should always be kept in isolation for at least three weeks before being allowed to join the other plants in your home.

Although you should scrutinize a plant thoroughly before buying it, it still may carry diseases which you cannot see.

One way to protect against diseases spread by a new plant is to give it a mild soap and water washing after it's home. Always use soap — not a detergent — and room temperature water. Gently sponge the tops and bottoms of leaves with this solution and then rinse carefully under the shower. If your climate is warm you can use a mild spray from the garden hose. This gets rid of the insecticide residue that nurseries must put on their plants, and it frees the leaves of and other dirt that may have accumulated.

Since most green houses don't have the time to help a plant adapt from the humidity it was born and raised in to the desert-like conditions of your home, do it yourself. Set your new plant in a clear plastic bag large enough to accommodate it comfortably (so that the leaves aren't restricted) and tie the top. Each day poke a hole or two in the plastic. Soon you will have a shredded bag and the plant will have adapted to your home's lower humidity.

Usually it's best to avoid disturbing new plants immediately after purchase, but if they are the five-and-dime variety, a repotting at once in enriched, sterilized soil may be necessary. When plants are mass produced and potted, cheap soil may be used and it should only be a temporary medium.

Prospect, Conant, Meadows host major track features

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

When Forest View's Steve Schellenberger steps to the starting line of the 880-yard run tonight at the Prospect Invitational track meet, it will be a rematch and a preview at the same time.

Standing just a few paces from the Falcons' diminutive superstar — prepared to do battle — will be rangy Ken Staggs of Homewood-Flossmoor. Staggs came from several yards back to beat Schellenberger with a 1:54.2 in this meet last year, but Schellenberger turned the tables on Staggs in the state meet a month later.

That was in Charleston in the 880 finals when the Forest View flash, only a junior then, seemingly came out of nowhere to nip Staggs at the wire in 1:51.9.

Ever since that warm, sunny day on the Eastern Illinois University campus, track fans have been waiting patiently for the first return match of the two best half-milers in the state. Schellenberger has run 1:56.5 and Staggs 1:56.7 in preparation for tonight's showdown.

Adding to the excitement will be another pair of 1:56 runners — Mike Garcia of York and Dave Franson of LaGrange. A victory for either of them could conceivably be a stepping stone to a state title.

The featured half-mile race tonight in the seventh annual Prospect headliner will kick off a busy weekend of area track and field meets. The Prospect Invite begins at 4 p.m. with finals starting at approximately 7:00.

On Saturday, Rolling Meadows will host the Mustang Jamboree at 1 p.m., and Conant will inaugurate the Cougar Track Classic, a trailblazer of a meet which will begin at noon.

But the action begins tonight.

The Schellenberger-Staggs confrontation will be one of several interesting races at Prospect involving individual state contenders.

Defending state two-mile champion Ron Craker of York, who has a 9:05 outdoors this year, will run up against one of his main challengers, Mark Tomasik of Maine East. Tomasik has turned in a 9:20 outdoors and he ran a 9:14 indoors earlier in the year. But the Maine East standout has missed some workouts recently and may not be at peak form for his meeting with Craker tonight.

Forest View's Jim Vartanian will lead a strong field in the 120-yard high hurdles. He will get plenty of competition from Brian Briars of Maine East, Jim Wright of Prospect and several others. Briars hopes to be fully recovered from a sprained ankle.

The team favorite would appear to be Maine West, a strong, well-balanced team which triumphed over several of tonight's entrants in last week's Palatine Relays, including York and LaGrange. The Warriors of coach Ron Brown were Central Suburban League South indoor champions.

"Maine West is awfully hard to beat," said York coach Joe Newton. "They've got to be the favorites."

Newton praised Maine West's mighty stockpile of sprinters, which includes Scot Unger and Tony Krainik who have both run :10.0 and contribute a whole lot to the success of the REMEMBER WHEN? This was the scene at the state track meet last May when Steve Schellenberger (left) of Forest View came from behind to beat Homewood-Flossmoor's Ken Staggs in the finals of the 880-yard run. Schellenberger and Staggs will meet again in the half-mile tonight at the Prospect Invitational.

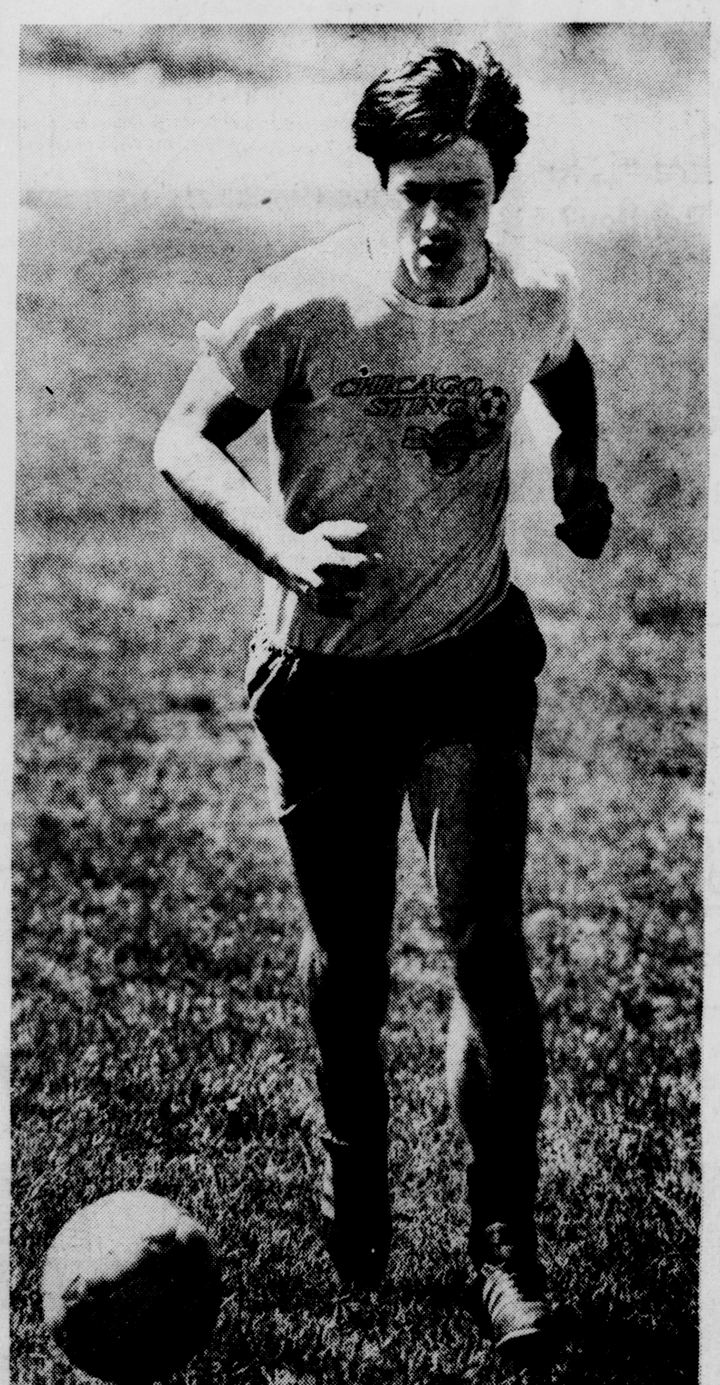
Sting ready to run

The Chicago Sting will celebrate its second North American Soccer League home opener tonight with "Youth Night."

Over 2,000 young soccer players will be admitted free for the game at Soldier Field with the Toronto Metros-Croatia, beginning at 8 p.m.

Besides a mass parade by the Chicagoland youth teams, fans will be treated to a celebrity-Media halftime game. The celebrities will include Bobby Douglass, Virg Carter, John Pont, Johnny Lattner and Ray Meyer.



The Sting's Eddie Cliff zeros in for a boot.

Exhaustion's the name of the game.

Loser's lair can be dangerous

Everybody is brawling these days.

High school basketball had some unfortunate incidents this past season, and tempers flare on a daily basis in the pro version with the Chicago Bulls a pace-setter.

Hockey is having one of its worst years for violence, and baseball now has had four major fights in less than a month.

Maybe it was time for the sporting press and the sporting people to join in the fun. Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies had to be physically restrained from throwing a punch at a writer last Sunday following the team's 3-2 loss to Atlanta.

Ozark, upset by a question on strategy, then said he would grant no more interviews, but National League President Charles "Chub" Feeney Tuesday ordered him to talk to the press.

This entire incident may set off a chain reaction. These feuds run in streaks so we could be in for a series of nonsense over the next few weeks with coaches, players and writers all exchanging insults and possibly a few punches.

What else is new?

There was this sign in the Detroit Red Wings' hockey clubhouse years ago:

"Writers enter at their own risk."

The day before, Charlie Conacher had kayoed Lew Walter, the Detroit Times' hockey writer, while his brother John, who wrote for a rival paper, stood by taking notes.

So you want to be a sportswriter.

Baltimore Orioles' manager Earl Weaver, miffed by a newspaper series on his team, spit on reporter Chan Keith.

"He walked over to me, spit, and then said, 'Excuse me'," said Keith. Sometime later, in front of witnesses again, Weaver, according to the writer, spit on him at, of all places, Friendship Airport in Baltimore.

Former baseball star Maury Wills took a swing at a Montreal writer, and a Cincinnati reporter named Earl Lawson was punched twice within six years — by Johnny Temple and Vada Pinson, whom he had criticized in his column.

"Temple has the harder punch," said Lawson.

When pitcher Mickey McDermott went after Bob Holbrook of the Boston Globe many years ago, the writer had to have his hand X-rayed after punches were thrown.

Earlene Brown of the Roller Derby, all 245 pounds, picked up a sportswriter and actually paddled him when he implied that her sport wasn't on the up-and-up. I wonder if the "fight" was up-and-up?

While making his comeback, pitcher Denny McClain threw water on a couple of Detroit baseball writers, which only dampened his own cause more, and Ohio State coach Woody Hayes allegedly smashed a camera into a photographer's face at one Rose Bowl.

Al Lopez was around a long time, including a very successful stint as manager of the White Sox, and he usually had good press relations. But when once asked by a Cleveland writer why he relieved pitcher Bob Feller, he called a meeting and announced:

Danny Ozark

"Don't ever ask me why I do anything. Criticize me for what I do if you want, but don't ask me why. It should be obvious why I do something. It's because that's what I think should be done."

Are you listening, Danny Ozark?

This relationship between the press and the people in sports has ranged between one of sycophancy and one of adversaries.

Let's be honest. The press glorifies many of these athletes and coaches and soon many actually begin to believe such flatulent phrases as "miracle workers" and "superstar." But when that armor is chinked with a defeat or a poor performance, the sports hero often seeks the blood of the men who made him so vulnerable in the first place — the press.

Broadway producers are said to hate with a passion certain newspaper drama critics. The critics hold the power of life and death over many stage productions. If they rip a play, it may fold in a hurry. If they praise it, box-office is enhanced, if not assured.

Most sportswriters do not wield that much power although some obviously feel they do. It is true that their comments carry considerable weight.

The wonder is that most sportswriters are so objective. Their objectivity is often severely tested because the theater has no monopoly on prima donnas.

Some sports promoters operate on the assumption that they are entitled to a steady flow of soothing encomiums from the press box. And some pro athletes brand a writer a ripper if he reports the fact that the shortstop booted three ground balls yesterday.

Every season seems to bring its share of writers threatened, barred from locker rooms, but we're off to an early start in baseball for 1976. They're not even waiting for the hot weather.

When you consider the antagonism that boils between athletes, coaches and those who write and speak critically of them, it's a wonder more people aren't manhandled. Situations are often so explosive only a remark or question taken the wrong way is needed to set them off.

Just ask Danny Ozark.

Ali tops scales for Young fight

Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali beat his previous high weight by a pound today when he scaled 230 pounds for Friday night's title fight with Jimmy Young at the Capital Centre.

Young, the former Philadelphia dock worker who enters the fight with a string of 12 victories, weighed in at 209 pounds.

Ali weighed 229 when he took on Mac Foster in a 15-round bout in Tokyo on April 1, 1972. Friday's fight will be the champions's second title defense this year.

Ali told Young he didn't train too hard for this fight "because I got a fight next month." The champion sparred less than 100 rounds in preparation for the fight, while the 27-year-old Young, unbeaten in his last 12 fights, worked more than 160 in the gym.

Ken Norton, who is looking ahead to a showdown match with Ali sometime in late September, weighed in at 224 for his 12-pound bout with Ron Stander which will immediately precede the Ali-Young clash. Stander scaled in at 229.

The inclusion of Norton makes the nationally televised (ABC-TV, 8 p.m. CST) program from the Capital Centre unique in that it marks the first time the heavyweight champion and No. 1 contender have fought on the same card against different opponents. It is estimated that more than 50 million people will view the proceedings.

For his efforts, Young will receive $100,000 plus expenses, his biggest payday ever. Ali will earn $1 million, his customary figure for defenses against lesser opponents.

Flyers, Habs earn Stanley Cup wins

Reggie Leach, the NHL's leading goal-scorer during the regular season, scored his eighth playoff goal when he pushed in a shot in front of the net at 13:38 of sudden death overtime Thursday night to give the Philadelphia Flyers a 2-1 win over the Boston Bruins.

Meanwhile in Montreal, veteran defenseman Serge Savard scored one goal and set up two others Thursday night as the Canadiens took a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series by defeating the New York Islanders 4-3.

The victory for the defending champion Flyers evened their Stanley Cup semifinal series at one game each.

Boston forced the overtime on a power play goal by Johnny Bucyk at 13:17 of the third period. But the Flyers kept continual pressure on Boston goalie Gerry Cheevers, who beat back repeated breakaways before Leach — who scored 61 regular season goals — put in the game-winner on assists by Jim and Joe Watson.

Savard scored what proved to be the winning goal for the Canadiens at 2:42 of the final period, chasing starting Islanders goalie Billy Smith out of the game. Yvan Cournoyer took a hard shot at Smith and the rebound came out to Savard, who blasted a 10-foot drive into the New York net. The goal gave Montreal a 4-1 lead.

Honest Pleasure at fifth post spot

Heavily-favored Honest Pleasure drew the No. 5 post position for Saturday's 102nd running of the $125,700-added, 1¼-mile Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs. Bold Forbes, expected to be Honest Pleasure's chief competition, drew the No. 2 hole.

The complete field of nine horses, their jockeys and probable odds are: 1. On The Sly, G. McCarron, 20-1; 2. Bold Forbes, Cordero, 2-1; 3. Elocutionist, Lively, 12-1; 4. Bidson, MacBeth, 30-1; 5. Honest Pleasure, Baeza, 1-2; 6. Amano, Melancon, 30-1; 8. Play The Red, Velasquez, 15-1 and 9. Inca Roco, Nemeti, 30-1. All horses will carry 126 pounds.

Cavs sink Bullets for playoff berth

A driving lay-up by Dick Snyder with four seconds left in the game Thursday night gave the Cleveland Cavaliers an 87-85 victory over the Washington Bullets and a spot in the NBA Eastern final playoffs.

Snyder, who scored 13 first period points and topped Cleveland with 23, took an inbound pass from Jim Clemons with nine seconds left and drove for the biggest winning basket in Cleveland Cavalier history.

The Bullets' last-chance pass was deflected by Nate Thurmond and Phil Chenier's final shot bounced off the rim at the buzzer as 21,564 fans swarmed over their heros.

The crowd was the fourth straight record-breaking NBA playoff mark reached in the four playoff games played here.

And in other sports news...

Steady rains caused tournament officials to postpone the first round of the $200,000 Houston Open golf tournament. The round was rescheduled for Friday and now after Saturday's second session, the field will be trimmed from 156 to 60 for a final double round on Sunday . . . South African Ilana Kloss upset third-seeded Martina Navratilova in the $100,000 Women's Tennis Tournament in Amelia Island Plantation, Fla. Top seeded Chris Evert advanced meanwhile by crushing Tory Fretz, 6-0, 6-0.

Dave Marcis won his fifth pole position of 1976 in qualifying for Sunday's $216,235 Winston 500 at the Alabama International Motor Speedway . . . Prospect grad Dave Kingman continued his early season tear with the New York Mets Thursday by singling home the tie-breaking run in a 2-0 triumph over Atlanta.

National League President Charles Feeney suspended Philadelphia Phillie shortstop Larry Bowa for three games and fined him $350 for a bumping incident with an umpire Wednesday night . . . Colorado offensive tackle Mike Koncar, the first round draft pick of the Green Bay Packers, will be arraigned in county court May 11 on assault charges stemming from a fight with a bicyclist.

Retired Gen. James Van Fleet, a former Army fullback whose Fourth Infantry Division spearheaded the Normandy D-Day invasion, was named recipient of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame's Distinguished American Award for 1976.

Soph Rausch hurls West to come-from-behind win

Sophomore Ron Rausch, making his first mound appearance of the year, pitched 6 2/3 innings of near flawless relief and led the Maine West Warriors to a 9-5 come-from-behind win over Maine South Thursday.

Rausch came in four runs down and put out an early South rally, then was nicked for only one more run, while striking out five and walking three in relief of Glen Rollo.

The Warriors scored three in the fourth, four in the fifth and two more in the sixth to get the win, with the big blast coming from the bat of Glen Watson, who knocked a three-run homer in the fifth. Watson hit a grand slam Wednesday.

The Warriors still hold first place in the Central Suburban League South with a 5-1 league mark and a 7-2 overall slate.

The Warriors travel today to meet Glenbrook North in a 4:15 p.m. league contest.

Sox drop fifth in a row; Cubs fall 9-5 to Padres

by BOB GALLAS

If they only would have let the "Goose" blow on his hands, things might have been different.

White Sox pitcher Rich "Goose" Gossage and his mates didn't get much help from the weatherman or the umpires in Thursday's 8-5 loss to Milwaukee.

The weatherman, well, he's forced postponement of so many Sox games that outside of Wilbur Wood, who's pitched five of the Southsiders' 11 games this year, most Sox pitchers have forgotten how to get to the mound.

The umpires, well, they didn't like the way the Goose was trying to keep his fingers warm, by blowing on them, so they doomed him to cold pinkies by forbidding him to put his hands to his mouth.

"My fingers were numb," said Gossage, who after giving up two walks and three hits in the first inning, settled down and pitched reasonably well. "They (umpires) thought I was wetting my fingers, so they wouldn't give me permission to put my hand to my mouth, which they usually do on cold days.

"I just didn't have the good rhythm with my fast ball right away," Gossage explained. "Nobody on the staff has pitched very much and it takes time," he said.

Gossage at two different points retired seven in a row and he struck out six of the last nine Brewers he faced, finishing with nine strikeouts. After giving up three in the first, Gossage was taken downtown by Bobby Darwin in the fifth, as Darwin popped a two-run homer.

The Sox knocked Milwaukee pitcher Jim Slaton out in the eighth with a five run outburst. Slaton had been cruising along with a one hitter, a first-inning triple by Ralph Garr that was misplayed by Brewer leftfielder Charlie Moore.

Pete Varney started the Sox rally with a solo home run, his third. Then Buckey Dent walked, Ralph Garr singled when the ball took a crazy high bounce over second baseman Pete Garcia's head. Jorge Orta singled in Dent and Slaton was sent to the showers.

Enter Tom Murphy who got Cleon Jones to hit a double-play ball to George Scott at first, but the ball went right through Scott's legs for an error, allowing Garr to score the third Sox run.

Enter pitcher Jerry Augustine, who got Carlos May to hit the ball in the infield, a smash that Scott couldn't handle. That brought in the fourth Sox run, Orta, to score.

The small crowd of 1,709 had woken up by that time to a full-scale White Sox rally. Jim Spencer responded with a single to right that scored Bradford and tied the score at five.

But then the Brewers played their ace, bullpen ace that is. Ed Rodriguez came on and retired Chet Lemon and Jack Brohamer. Rodriguez now has six saves in his last seven outings and picked up the win in Thursday's contest.

Clay Carroll, who hadn't given up a run all season or in preseason games, came in to toil the ninth for the Sox, but was tagged for three unearned runs and got the loss. With one out and a man on first, Jim Spencer couldn't handle pinchhitter Bill Sharp's ground ball and two men were on. Carroll got Don Money to foul out for the second out, but Robin Yount singled in a run, then Scott singled in two more, but was caught trying to go to second on the throw to the plate and the inning was over, the damage done.

SOX SHORTS: The Sox have signed Sonny Jackson to a contract with their Iowa farm club. Jackson played almost eight seasons in the big leagues with Houston and Atlanta, his best year coming in 1966 with the Astros when he hit .292. A free agent, the 31-year-old Jackson has spent the past two seasons in the minors.

Tonight is teen night at Comiskey Park. Teens will be admitted to the park at half prices to enjoy dancing on the field and special prizes, prior to the game with Detroit.

Ralph Garr has a seven-game hitting streak going and has his average up to over .200 after a slow start. The Sox will retire the number of the late Nellie Fox, number two, in pregame ceremonies before Saturday's 1:15 p.m. game with the Tigers.

Rookie beats Cubs

From Herald Wire Services

SAN DIEGO — Rookie Jerry Turner's two-run double triggered a four-run eighth inning Thursday that carried the San Diego Padres to a 9-5 triumph over the Cubs.

Butch Metzger, now 3-0, got the win in relief with Mike Garman, the fourth Chicago pitcher, taking the loss, his second in three decisions.

Dave Winfield opened the San Diego eighth with an infield single and was sacrificed to second by Ted Kubiak. Gene Locklear and Fred Kendall walked to load the bases and Turner followed with a double to drive home the tie-breaking runs. Enzo Hernandez then singled home the final two runs of the inning.

The Padres tied the score at 5-5 in the seventh when Willie Davis doubled across Kendall, who had been hit by a pitch to open the inning. Davis also tripled home two runs in the third and scored himself on an infield out when the Padres took a 4-3 lead.

The Cubs went ahead 5-4 in the fifth on a triple by pinch-hitter Joe Wallis and singles by Rick Monday, Jose Cardenal and Jerry Morales.

Chicago took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a walk to Monday, Cardenal's run-scoring double and a single by Morales, but San Diego got a run back in the first on a triple by Turner and an infield out.

Track card features three meets

Warriors' relay teams.

York is the defending champ in the 16-team field, which also includes Zion-Benton, Arlington, Hersey, Niles North, New Trier East, Niles East, Larkin, Crown and Lockport.

The fourth annual Mustang Jamboree at Rolling Meadows will be looking for a new champion Saturday, while over at Conant six teams will be vying for the honor of carting home the first Cougar Track Classic trophy.

The Jamboree has had three different team champions in three years, and if tradition holds, a fourth squad will wrestle the title away from defending champ Glenbard South Saturday.

Meadows coach Joe Vitton figures his Mustangs have as good a chance as anybody in the meet, which will include Barrington, Elgin, Hinsdale South, Niles West, Taft, and Waukegan East. Rolling Meadows has never won the Jamboree. The Mustangs were fifth last year despite strong showings in the weight events.

This year, again, Vitton's shot put and discus crews will be instrumental in the team's chances for this meet, in which all events are run as four-man relays. Weightmen Rich Huber, Dave Thompson, and Scott Jennings are key performers for the Mustangs.

Rolling Meadows will also contend in several relay events on the track, especially the 440-and class mile relays. Rick Sutton, Fred Kocian, Dave Crow and Dave Boursaw are among the runners whom Vitton will depend on.

The Mustangs took second place in the rain-delayed Lake Forest Invite Wednesday as Sutton captured firsts in the 100-dash (:10.2) and the 440 (:52.0), an event that is relatively new to the Meadows junior this year.

The Mustang mile relay team ran 3:34 for first place, also, with Crow, Kocian, Pete Till and Ted Tyk. The 440-relay team was second in :45.0.

"Glenbard South is definitely the favorite again," said Vitton coyly, while adding that his own Mustangs could finish first in about eight or 10 events.

" 'Could win' is one thing, winning it is another," the Rolling Meadows head man said.

At Conant, the Cougar Track Classic will feature a unique approach to the sport. Each event will be run in three flights — for three levels of a team's talent. The concept is patterned after the Crete-Monee cross country meet.

Conant coach Ron Gummerson, the meet director, will welcome a six-team field of Palatine, Naperville Central, Morton East, East Leyden, Rockford Auburn, and his own Cougars.

"The idea is to give a team's No. 2 and No. 3 kids a chance to score points and win medals," said Gummerson, who plans to expand to 12 teams in 1977 and 18 teams the following year.

The Cougar Classic will be a kind of Russian Roulette for track and field as each coach matches his own best athlete (he hopes) against another team's best athlete (he thinks) — and so on down the line from division A through Division C.

The meet will test a team's depth as no other meet has ever tested it. Awards will be presented to placers on each level in each event.

Boys vs. girls tonight in Conant's gym

Conant High School will hold a girls versus boys fund raising basketball game tonight, beginning at 7 p.m.

The boys, coached by the girls' head coach, Barb Bostian, will be playing under the handicap of having to wear boxing gloves and not being allowed to shoot in the free throw lane.

The girls will be coached by Jerry Mikrut, a boys' assistant coach. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Derby needs qualifying standards—for humans

Jim Murray

The Kentucky Derby, which is staged Saturday in Louisville, is America's most prestigious horse race. Not its best, bit its most prestigious.

One of the reasons it's not the best is because it's not the most selective. If you have a horse and a couple thousand dollars, you can get in.

One result of this is, you have the field cluttered up with selling horses which don't belong there. Occasionally, the race gets so bulky the wrong horse wins it.

One of the solutions for this is to demand a series of qualifying tests — make the horses show they are up for the race, fit, qualified, not just out to say they've been there. Proof of quality I leave to the horsemen to set up.

Now, then, there will also be 150,000 humans at Churchill Downs on Derby Day. Many of them don't belong there, either. Many of them will bow in the stretch, come up lame, prop, lug in, lug out, become rank — do all the things green Derby horses do.

Accordingly, I would set up qualifying standards, failure of which to meet would have you turned back at the border, escorted back on the plane, sealed aboard the train or picked up hitchhiking and given 24 hours to get out of town. Barred from the Kentucky Derby would be any of the following:

1—Anyone who has never paid a three-day rate of $250 for a $12-a-day hotel room.

2—Anyone who has never paid $17 for a $3 cab ride.

3—Anyone who has never had his pocket picked.

4—Anyone who has never paid $4 for a third of an ounce of watered whisky with weeds in it.

5—Anyone who has never cried at the playing of "My Old Kentucky Home."

6—Anyone who can tell a boy horse from a girl horse (or Secretariat from a lead pony) from a foot away.

7—Anyone who owns a horse but is not also (a) an actor, (b) a singer, (c) television producer, (d) nightclub comic, (e) disc jockey or (f) a partner of same.

8—Any television executive unwilling to bid millions of dollars for 1 minute 59 seconds of action.

9—Anyone not willing to get in a game where the house takes the first 15 cents of every dollar and the caterers, concessionaires, touts and distilleries the rest.

10—Anyone who knows a straight from a flush and which beats which.

11—Anyone who knows enough to say no to a card game on a train, plane or Ohio River boat.

12—Anyone who does know that a tout will be standing by the cashier's window if you go to cash a horse he gave you. (Also anyone who does know he gave every horse in the race to someone and maybe several ones.)

13—Anyone who doesn't run right out and bet everything on the tip he got from the bartender.

14—Anyone who doesn't have a "system."

15—Anyone who knows that if you bet a horse to place and he wins, you still win.

16—Anyone who wouldn't cash a check for a guy who says he's a Kentucky colonel or make change for a fifty for a guy who says he owns Honest Pleasure.

17—Anyone who won't pay $50 for Hot Horse Harlan's sealed tip for the day and says "One to a customer, don't pass it around."

18—Anyone who won't say "Just run a tab" in a downtown bar.

19—Anyone not prepared to stay up all night shooting craps with a bunch of guys who know each other.

20—Anyone who won't believe the rumor the favorite "has been standing in ice all week long."

21—Anyone who won't write home for more money by Wednesday.

22—Anyone who can walk in Shed Row and tell which part of the horse is the withers.

If you pass all of the above tests you will be as welcome at Louisville as Man O' War — or BankAmericard. If you don't, you don't belong there any more than Warra Nymph — or two-thirds of the field they're loading in the gates this week. But Louisville is not worried. There are 30,000 thoroughbred candidates foaled for Kentucky every year. But the human kind? There's one born every minute.

Elk Grove holds softball tryouts

Team tryouts for Elk Grove Village softball will be held this weekend, Saturday May 1 and Sunday, May 2 at Bartram Park. Community league tryouts for girls ages 8 to 12 will start at 10 o'clock. Traveling league tryouts for girls ages 12 to 18 start at noon.

For further information please call Betty Brandt at 437-0692 or Chuck Steiger at 439-0304. Registrations for girls softball teams are still being accepted.

Buffalo Grove prepares for basketball headliner

A dream game for high school basketball fans that features such prep standouts as Glen Grunwald of East Leyden, Levi Cobb of state champion Morgan Park and St. Laurence's Steve Krafcisin will be played at Buffalo Grove High School Saturday, May 8 at 8 p.m.

A special selection committee of top Chicago area coaches picked the 30 players — 15 from the city and 15 from the suburbs — for the Third Annual Windy City All-Star game sponsored by the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Chicago Boys Club.

Cobb will spearhead the city dwellers team with an 18.6 points per game average, but will be capably assisted by low-post teammate 6-8 Eric Bowman along with two outstanding guards in Len Williams of Harrison who scored over 2,000 points in his career and Carl Nicks of Englewood.

Grunwald, who has been named to two All-American teams plus being the first Illinois player to be selected All-State for four years, scored 27.2 points per game, leading East Leyden to an undefeated season and its fourth consecutive conference crown.

Joining Grunwald from the Eagles will be 6-7 John Hedler and 6-1 floor leader Mark Lavin, a former Fremd High School player.

The battle around the pivot will be fearsome when the 6-5 Cobb, 6-10 Krafcisin and the jumping Arnett Hallman of Schurz buck 6-9 Chuck Dahms of Oak Park, 6-6 Neil Bresnahan of Fenwick, 6-7 strongman Bob Zyburt of Niles West, Dale Yarbourgh from North Chicago and 6-5 Ron Hicks from West Aurora.

Fans will get a closeup look at some of the smoothest forwards in the nation when city boys 6-6 Robert Byrd of Phillips, 6-4 Don Ross of Calumet, 6-3 Henry Tiggs of Orr, 6-6 Lonnie Lewis of Simeon and Morgan Park's Bowman try to outmaneuver the Suburban stars.

The Suburbanites will be paced by 6-8 Grunwald, 6-7 teammate John Hendler, 6-5 Mark Feiersel of Loyola, 6-4 Jay Bryant of West Aurora, 6-4 Randy Roland of Elgin and 6-6 Curt Tatge of Loyola Academy.

The suburban guard play is expected to be hot and flashy with Jamie Macahon of Ridgewood (23.7 points per game) Lavin, Tom Norris of Oak Park and Rob Judson of Zion-Benton.

City guards include Nicks, Williams, Alonzo Johnson of Westinghouse, Herman Hoskins of Phillips and Percy Leonard of Orr.

Tickets for the game will be $2 for adults and $1 for students including those of college age. They will go on sale at Buffalo Grove High School on Monday morning. Fans are urged to purchase them early for a large crowd is anticipated.

The top 12 players from the city and suburban teams will make up a team that will play a junior Russian squad sometime in June in the Chicagoland area.

Rolling Meadows hands Arlington first loss, 6-3

A Herald Staff Report

Rolling Meadows dashed any hopes Arlington entertained of an undefeated season by trumping the Cards, 6-3, to headline a full slate of Mid-Suburban League baseball games Thursday.

The Mustangs made the most of six hits off Arlington starter Craig Kennedy and reliever Glenn Eisenhuth with a pair of runs in each of the third, fourth and sixth innings.

Meadows broke a scoreless duel when Jim Broderick singled and scored on Guy Tenuta's sacrifice fly to right. Paul Marsillo lined a base hit and was plated by a balk.

Arlington halved its 2-0 deficit with a run in the fourth as Brett Frase's infield out batted in John Vukovich. The Cards dented the plate again in the fifth on Jim Vogts' single to right and a fielder's choice.

But while Noe Nunez, Marsillo and Dave Bell contributed RBI's for the Mustangs, the final hero was relief hurler John Carbery who took over for winner Dennis Drolet by picking a runner off second base and earning a save by inducing an unassisted grounder to the first baseman.

BISON STAMPEDE

Tim Prokof clubbed a pair of homers and Mike Marshall smashed his third round-tripper of the season as Buffalo Grove rolled to a 15-1 conquest of visiting Wheeling.

The Bison pounded out a total of 13 hits — seven of them for extra bases — and Prokof and Marshall drove in a total of nine runs in support of Phil Czosnyka's two-hit pitching. Glenn Barry was responsible for both Wildcat safeties, including a fourth-inning leadoff homer that spoiled Czosnyka's shutout bid.

Buffalo Grove produced more than enough firepower to win in the first frame when Mike Ledna doubled, Czosnyka reached on a fielder's choice and Prokof drilled the first of his four-baggers. The inning continued through additional hits by Steve Chobanian, Don Saulic and Dave Martin until Ledna connected for another safety and drove in two more runs.

Marshall and Prokof both powered homers in the third and Marshall slapped out a bases-loaded double in the fourth that topped off Bison scoring and gave him 12RBIs for the season. Czosnyka whiffed 13 and walked only two in recording his first conference verdict.

HOFFMAN HAMMERS FREMD

Thanks to a nine-run first inning, the South Division leading Hoffman Estates Hawks romped to a 5-5 win over the hosting Fremd Vikings.

The Hawks used six hits, a walk and four Viking errors to good advantage in the opening inning against starting pitcher Steve Peters. The big blows were a two-run triple by designated hitter Ray Gawron and a two-run double by first baseman Joe Gajewski. Fourteen players batted in that frame.

Bob Slawek, the starting and winning pitcher, went four full innings before Earl Hausl finished the final three. Slawek gave up all five runs, two of which scored in the first inning on a double by Kerry Field.

Fremd used three pitchers, but Hoffman kept on hitting to finish with 13. Slugging two each were John Staback, Gajewski (both in the first), Gawron, Bill Armstrong and Randy Brown.

Fremd's Matt Fox, Mike Mertes and Field had two hits each. However, the usually strong Viking defense committed eight errors.

Hoffman's record is 5-1 with Fremd dropping to 3-2.

HERSEY BESTS CONANT

The Hersey Huskies ran up a seven-run lead, then hung on to defeat the Conant Cougars, 8-4, on the Cougar field Thursday.

Todd Walker, a junior, went the distance for the Huskies, giving up four runs, two of them earned, striking out six and walking only one.

The Huskies scored five in the first on five hits, a walk and a sacrifice. Hersey added one in the third when Bob Hart, who was three-for-three with a single, double and triple, knocked in Tom Barnard with a triple.

In the fifth inning, Barnard doubled and was driven home by Hart again, this time with a single. That made it 7-0, Hersey.

The Cougars got a run in the fifth when Dave Brumm and Roger Schweigert singled. Mike Wendt drove home the first Conant run when he got on by an error. Conant added two more in the sixth when Rob Totten doubled in Scott Schafer and Jeff Johnson scored on an infield out by Dan Mullin. Conant's last run, in the seventh, came when Dan Neswald knocked in Schweigert, on base with a double.

PROSPECT NUDGES GRENS

The Prospect Knights struck for five runs in the opening frame and went on to punch the Elk Grove Grenadiers 9-5 and run their Mid-Suburban League record to 5-2.

The Grens are winless in eight tries.

Tim Davies was the recipient of all the offensive fireworks and picked up the win for the Knights.

Kirk Lebica's single in the first accounted for a pair of Prospect runs and Dave Thoma drove in another with a double.

Davies also had a double and scored in the fifth and Thoma drove home another run with a single.

Pat Higgins and Dave Landes each drove in runs in the sixth with singles.

Bob Ray and Tom Curran carried the offensive load for Elk Grove.

Ray was 3-for-3 with a sacrifice fly and drove in a run while Curran was 2-for-4 with a double.

Rock Valley sweeps twin bill from Harper

Harper's bats, among the most powerful in the state this season, fell silent at the wrong time Thursday as Rock Valley swept a doubleheader from the Hawks.

The twin killings dropped Harper's record to 17-6, 7-5 in the North Central Community College Conference.

Dave Patterson, the losing pitcher in the first game, was betrayed by three Harper errors as the Hawks lost 3-2.

Harper clicked for two runs in the opening frame, paced by George Meyer's run-scoring triple and a suicide squeeze bunt by Patterson.

Patterson went all seven innings in a losing cause and none of the three runs tacked on him were earned.

Patterson figured prominently in the second game, a 5-2 Rock Valley win, throwing four innings of scoreless relief work.

Rock Valley had jumped to a 5-1 lead by then, though, and Harper could put together only one more run the rest of the way.

The Hawks first run, in the bottom of the third inning, started when Dave Mnichowicz reached on a dropped third strike.

Pinch runner Scott Green then advanced on Meyer's walk, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on Dave Mills' sacrifice fly.

Howie Brauer, the leading hitter on the Harper squad, singled in the seventh to drive in the Hawks' other run.

Knights' Hanson injures back

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Tennis Editor

The Prospect Knights ran into some bad luck Thursday but still topped Elk Grove 4-1 to improve their Mid-Suburban League record to 6-1.

The Knights played without No. 1 singles player Dan Hanson, who injured his back. "He hurt himself serving," said Prospect coach Jim Gelhaar. "He's had trouble with his back before and we don't know how long he'll be out."

Steve Chelberg filled in and posted a straight set victory but the Knights' No. 1 doubles team of Paul Mallon and Jim Bryja lost to Bob Curran and Dave Mack 6-4, 1-6, 7-5.

"Elk Grove has a decent team," said Gelhaar, "but we just beat ourselves at first doubles."

Elk Grove coach Ken Rundquist commented, "I think it was a combination of the play of our kids and the fact Prospect might have felt a letdown after their Arlington meet."

Speaking of Arlington, the Cardinals hammered Hoffman Estates 5-0 for their 101st straight conference dual meet win.

The Cardinals won all five of their matches in straight sets.

Rolling Meadows continued on a tear, beating Schaumburg 5-0 for their fourth straight conference win.

Singles players Brad Weber and Jeff Jay and the No. 2 doubles team of Steve Duffy and Jeff Harper all won in two sets.

Palatine turned in an impressive performance ss they clipped Fremd, 5-0.

Palatine coach John Carlson was faced with a problem at his No. 1 doubles team and made a substitution that paid off.

Kevin Kunzweiler's regular partner, Jerry McNabney, was absent for the meet and Carlson inserted Saul Gamoran.

"Gamoran is a player who hasn't been able to crack the lineup," Carlson noted, "and I was scared to death about that match.

"But he worked very, very hard and did a nice job."

Kunzweiler and Gamoran needed three sets to win the point, stopping Jack Needham and Bruce Funk 6-1, 4-6, 6-4.

Palatine, which is in third place in the MSL with a 6-2 record, also got straight set singles wins from Mike Esenberg and Phil Groesbeck.

Forest View, which moved into second place with a 7-1 mark and 39 points, slipped past Hersey 4-1.

Hersey's only point came at No. 1 doubles where Bill Rymsza and Kip Hahn handled Nick Kekos and Doug Majewski 6-3, 6-1.

Hersey coach Bruce Starek, whose Huskies are 5-4 in the MSL and posted a big win over Palatine earlier this week, said, "I was really impressed with the play of Rymsza and Hahn.

"I've been happy with the whole team. They've really shown a lot of improvement."

Forest View's singles players, Dave O'Donnell, Steve Calderone and Tom Kodadek, all won their matches in straight sets.

Buffalo Grove assured itself of a .500 season in the MSL as they handed Conant a 3-2 loss.

The Bison, who are 6-4 with just two matches left in the season, got the deciding points from their doubles teams.

Jack Szwacki and Ed Harrison won in straight sets at No. 1 doubles while Harry Bringsjord and Bruce Suchomel won a solid 6-1, 6-1 triumph at No. 2 doubles.

Orson Faynor grabbed a point for Conant at No. 1 singles with a 6-4, 6-7, 6-1 win over Bill Christensen.

Northwestern sets grid game

The Northwestern University varsity football team will split into two squads for the annual spring game Saturday afternoon, beginning at 1:30.

Thanks to the all-weather turf at Dyche Stadium, the game will be played no matter what the conditions.

Adults will be charged $2 for admission with high school students and younger admitted free.

CAR CORNER
with George Orth & Roger Nick

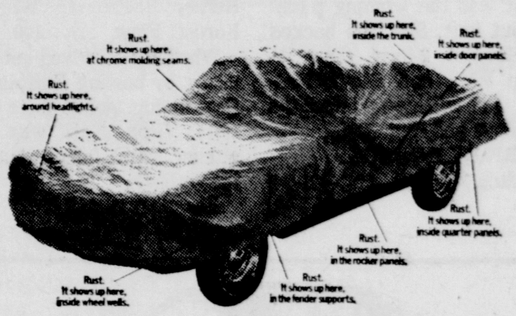
Armed with several moderately priced test instruments and tools — they will pay for themselves by the third tune-up, and also with the specifications listed in the service manual for your car, you can tune even the most intimidating of the larger engines. Why do it yourself? If you enjoy working with engines, you will get a certain amount of satisfaction out of putting your engine in that tip top condition that it should be. The largest part of any tune-up bill is the labor — and you will save yourself that money. But be sure you know what you are doing.

You can depend on the service given by expert technicians at RAY OLDSMOBILE, 501 Busse Hwy., Park Ridge! Regardless of where you bought your car, we want your service business; we have a policy of total commitment and quality service to our customers. When your GM car needs service, stop in and talk with GEORGE ORTH or ROGER NICK, our service managers. We feel that we can repair any make of GM car faster and at less cost than anyone else in the area! Call us at 696-3200 if you need a free "loaner" car while your car is being repaired! We are open Mondays through Fridays from 7 A.M. until 6 P.M.

HELPFUL HINT

Regardless of the car you are working on, always use replacement parts that meet the specifications of your service manual.

They still haven't unveiled the rustproof car.



And they probably never will. Because real rustproofing can't be done on an assembly line. Undercoating and ordinary rustproofing don't do a complete job either.

But Ziebart uses 9 patented spray tools to get inside your car's body. We cover every square inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make your car really rustproof, and worth more when you do trade it in.

There's only one place to get it. Through an authorized Ziebart Dealer. That's us.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Most spiders have poisonous venom

I wish you would explain something about spiders and spider bites. Last summer I was bitten on the arm by a brown spider as I was sitting on my porch swing relaxing after a hard day's work. The doctor gave me shots for three days straight. Could you tell me what the shot was? Was it to kill the poison? My arm got angry red and ached, but now it is okay.

Another man I know was bitten on the leg by a black spider and a hunk of flesh came out. Why was that? Are black spiders more poisonous than brown spiders?

You may be surprised to learn that almost all spiders are believed to have poisonous venom. They have the biting apparatus and venom glands to deliver their toxin. Fortunately almost all of the spiders have such a small amount of venom that it's useful only against other arthropods and not against us. The venom of spiders is analagous in many ways to the venom from snakes.

One of the largest groups of spiders that is poisonous to man includes the black widow and the gray window spider. The females of these spiders are the ones that inflict the greatest damage since the males have very poorly developed venom glands.

The black widow is commonly found outdoors. A common place for them was in the outhouse in rural America. That's why the bites were frequently on the buttocks or the genital areas. Sometimes if only a little venom was injected, there would only be two small red spots where the bite occurred. If more venom was injected, there would be a general reaction later with sweating, nausea, weakness and severe spasms of the abdominal muscles. This could be so marked as to suggest an acute surgical abdomen.

IF YOU WERE bitten by a brown spider, it was probably the hairy brown spider sometimes called the brown recluse. These are common in the United States and particularly in the Midwest. They are in the house and around the furniture. They may cause an area of local necrosis or place where a chunk of flesh will drop out as you described it after the bite. This makes me think your friend was bitten by a brown recluse rather than a black spider. The bite of the brown recluse is usually followed by redness and swelling and sometimes local destruction of tissue.

It's hard to say which is the most dangerous. It really depends on how much venom the spider is able to get into the bite. This, too, is somewhat like being bitten by a snake. You can be bitten by a very poisonous snake, but if most of the venom has already been ejected or the snake didn't get a good bite, then the reaction might not be so bad.

I can't tell you for certain what your doctor injected, but we do have antivenin preparations for spider bites just as there is an antivenin for snake venom.

For information on how aerosols affect you send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 3-4, Aerosol Dangers. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Reader wants to renew a chrome kitchen set

Dear Dorothy: The chrome legs on my kitchen table and chairs are rusting. Is there any way I can renew them? —Mrs. Florence Hathorn.

You will have to get off the chrome like any other metal — with sandpaper with or without the popular metal rust remover. Then, after every bit of the old coat is off, wipe it all with mineral spirits (use caution with this potent substance). Then give it all a metal priming coat, followed by any paint you like. To give it a resemblance to chrome, you can use a high gloss aluminum paint.

Dear Dorothy: Heard that there was an easy method to get Brazil nuts whole out of the shell. It had to do with putting them in the oven. Have you heard of it? — Mrs. H. W. Walters.

I do it all the time — with pecans, too. Put as many as you like in a 300-degree oven for 10 or 15 minutes, then let them cool. It will also work in a pressure cooker with a half cup of water for 5 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. The last time I did it for the grandchildren, they looked at me as if I were wearing a halo.

* * *

Dear Dorothy: With three kids, I've found gum on all sorts of garments, sometimes soft, sometimes hard. In all cases, after I got off as much as I could, I saturated the area in baby oil, let it soak for a few minutes, then washed in ammonia or soap (detergent). The gum has always come off with no stain. For me, it's a kind of small miracle. —Pat H.

* * *

Dear Dorothy: Before I throw away a used piece of aluminum foil, I crumple it up and use it as a scouring pad for dirty pots and pans. — Jo-Ann Roche.

Gamma Phi's, mates will dine progressive style

"A Star Spangled Evening" will be the theme for Northwest Suburban Alumnae Chapter of Gamma Phi Beta's progressive dinner at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Gamma Phi alums and their husbands will travel from Arlington Heights to Medinah for the four-course dinner in the Bicentennial spirit.

Hosts for the eveing will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hyson, Mr. and Mrs. John Sutherland and Mr. and Mrs. David Hilgers, Arlington Heights; and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reitz, Medinah. Mrs. Alvin Reitz, 529-7057, is in charge of arrangements.

Host new members

Members of Twenty-first Star Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution will host new and prospective members at the group's annual membership tea at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Glenview home of Mrs. David A. Vogle.

New members to be honored at the tea include Mrs. C. William Cummings and Mrs. Robert L. Howard, Mount Prospect; Mrs. John N. Hall II of Prospect Heights; and Mrs. Ward Leyerle of Des Plaines. Mrs. Joseph Palladino, Des Plaines, will be honored as a new associate member. Information 823-8790.

Happenings

See ethnic costumes

Models from 12 countries wearing costumes from their native lands will represent Mexico, Lithuania, France, Germany, Ireland, Japan, Sweden, Norway, Serbia, Roumania, Hungary and Czechoslovakia next Wednesday at the Magic Pan in Woodfield Shopping Center.

Kari Dahl of Arlington Heights, in Norwegian costume, will be among the models.

The "Around the World" fashion show is being staged for 100 South American guests, members of the Pan American Real Estate Appraisal Congress. However, the public is also invited. The show begins at 11:30 a.m.

WAC birthday May 15

All former WACs are invited to share in the corps' 34th birthday party to be held May 15 at the Sheraton Hotel, Chicago. Mrs. Lydia Gaydos, 773-9066, may be called for information and reservations. President of the group is Dorothy Janek of Arlington Heights.

Friends of Clearbrook will consider a number of projects and items needed for Clearbrook Center at a meeting Monday at Clearbrook Workshop, Elk Grove Village. The group annually hosts a brunch, held in November, as its main fund-raising event and will set it goals according to need.

New officers of the Friends are Jan Impey, president; Mimi Mead, vice president; Beth Shanahan, secretary; and Joan Greisch, treasurer. All are from Arlington Heights.

Sigma Alpha Iota

Mrs. Edwin Hassler will present a program featuring music of the classical period for the Tuesday meeting of Park Ridge Alumnae Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota. She will bring a 10-member string ensemble to help her demonstrate the music of that period.

Mrs. George Galvan, Arlington Heights, will be hostess for the 8 p.m. meeting. Information 255-5397.

Friendship Club

St. James Friendship Club will meet Tuesday in the Convent Hall. A Mother's Day theme will be observed. The board of directors will meet at 11 a.m.

The club is planning a tour of the Berggren Trayner Studios, makers of Swedish Arts, Wednesday, May 12. A chartered bus will leave the church parking lot in Arlington Heights at 10:45 a.m.

Ask Andy

Allergy caused by sensitive cells

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Elaine McBurney, 11, of Wexford, Pa., for her question:
WHAT IS AN ALLERGY?

Spring is the time of year when Mother Earth throws off her dull winter garb and reclothes herself in a glorious array of color. Tree limbs that have been bare suddenly send forth bunches of bright green leaves; and tiny seeds sprout, shooting up stems topped with fragrant flowers.
Sad to say, all this beauty brings a bit of misery to some people. For along with spring comes pollen —and pollen for many folks means hay fever.

The word allergy means altered response. Strawberries, for example, are a tasty treat that most people can pop into their mouths, chew a bit, swallow and that's that. Not so if you happen to be one of the unfortunate few allergic to them. You may break out in a rash, have an asthma attack or end up with a bad case of hives. In any case, the result seems greatly out of proportion to the amount eaten.

Allergies are caused by substances called allergens. And an allergen can be most anything. If your body is sensitive to a particular allergen, certain cells in the tissues begin producing antibodies. When the antibodies react with the allergens, chemicals called H-substances are released into the blood and other body fluids. These H-substances then bring about the symptoms of your allergy.

Allergens may be introduced into the body in several ways. They may be swallowed in food, inhaled from the air or injected. Certain people discover that they are allergic to such injected substances as penicillin. Others are allergic to soaps and other things that come in contact with the skin.

The most common allergens are tiny bits of matter carried in the air. Along with pollen, animal hair and dander, house dust, feathers, insecticides and smoke can cause an allergic reaction. Many foods may trigger a reaction, especially shellfish, milk, strawberries and certain melons.

Most allergies develop over a period of time. For example, an allergic reaction to a kitten may not show itself when you first bring the kitten home, but as time passes and the body builds up more and more antibodies, allergic symptoms appear.

Hives, hay fever, asthma and allergic eczema may all be symptoms of an allergy. Nowadays doctors can test a patient and in many cases find out what allergen is causing the discomfort. In many cases, certain chemical substances can be used to desensitize you and help you control your allergy.

People do not react to allergens in the same way. For example, a reaction to an allergen may produce hives in one person, hay fever or eczema is another and asthma in someone else.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Cheryl Ford, 13, of Youngstown, Ohio, for her question:

HOW DOES SMOKING MEAT KEEP IT FROM SPOILING?

Many methods are used to keep meat from spoiling, some modern and some dating back to primitive man. Canning, freezing, dehydrating and freeze-drying are relatively recent preserving techniques. But curing meat is centuries old and involves salting, cooking, drying or smoking, or a combination of these treatments. Smoked meat is preserved for varying lengths of time, depending on how long the smoking process lasts. A soft smoke is relatively short, just a few hours, while a hard smoke requires about two days.

The idea behind all these methods is to prevent the growth of tiny forms of life called micro-organisms. Unchecked, these mini-pests quickly multiply and spoil food. Smoking is one effective way to slow these mites down because wood smoke contains certain chemicals which retard their growth. Actually, smoking changes the flavor and odor of food, so it is used only on meats and fish whose flavors will be enhanced by the smoking process. Bacon, ham and salmon, for example, are delicious smoked. Many smoked foods still require refrigeration.

NBC slates 'Big Event'...maybe

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — NBC has scheduled a "Big Event" for every Sunday evening in its upcoming fall schedule — now all the network has to do is provide them.

"After all, a 'Big Event' has to be a really big event," Paul Klein, NBC's new vice president-programs, said during a party that introduced his boss, Irwin Segelstein, NBC's new executive vice president-programs, which only proves that NBC is a tangled web when it comes to corporate titles.

"Now we know when we schedule 'Gone With The Wind,' that's a big event. So is the NBC 50th anniversary show."

AMONG OTHER POSSIBLE big events are the World Series and the Super Bowl. NBC is planning to approach Baseball Comm. Bowie Kuhn and Football Comm. Pete Rozelle about the possibility of a World Series game and the Super Bowl becoming "Big Events."

Next January's Super Bowl is scheduled for Pasadena, Calif., and the game is scheduled for NBC in any event, as is the World Series (which goes to ABC in 1977).

With the three-hour time difference, if NBC could talk Rozelle into a 4 p.m. start, Pacific time, that would mean 7 p.m., Eastern time.

Among Klein's areas of major concern are the original dramatic presentations that will become "Big Events," as well as the novels that will be serialized in the Monday night "Best Sellers."

"UNIVERSAL IS THE sole supplier for 'Best Sellers,'" Klein said, "and the big event is for everybody else in Hollywood."

Klein said he hopes the "Big Event" would attract better dramatic writing to television. The lack of it, he said, is a major weakness in television dramatic presentations.

"We're now a market for a big time writer," he said, adding that writers of such shows would have "all the time in the world," as opposed to the oppressive week-in, week-out grind that writers face on regular series.

Haste forces lucky squeeze

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

"Haste makes waste," certainly applies in bridge. The game was match-point duplicate and North-South were playing that North's jump rebid to four spades would show a solid suit with six or seven winners. South bid Blackwood to make sure North held the ace of spaces and then went right to seven notrump to collect the extra 10 points since honors are not counted in duplicate.

He won the first trick with the ace of diamonds and proceeded to cash the ace and king of hearts in almost the same motion. West showed out and South stopped about as suddenly as a speeding car that has run into a concrete pillar.

"Why didn't I remember to cash dummy's king of clubs at trick two?" he asked himself.

Then he played the hand out slowly, carefully and successfully. All he did was to cash his last two high hearts and run dummy's spades. His first four discards were two clubs and a heart and a diamond. His fifth discard was his last heart. East had been forced to unguard his queen of clubs to hold the 10 of hearts, so the ace and jack of clubs won the last two tricks.

Planting of 'moon tree' to highlight Arbor Day

by LEA TONKIN

Special tree plantings throughout Illinois are slated today in observance of Arbor and Bird Day, the Illinois Dept. of Conservation reports.

Gov. Daniel Walker and Tony Dean, department director, will plant a sycamore seedling, a "moon tree," during Springfield ceremonies. The seedling is one of 34 trees grown a seed carried to the moon and back on the 1971 Apollo 14 mission.

In a proclamation naming today as Liberty Tree Arbor Day, Walker said, "Traditionally, a time for beautifying our communities with the planting of trees, shrubs and flowers, it is suggested the trees that are planted be considered Liberty Trees as a rededication to America's ideals."

The Chicago Park District and area communities will distribute and plant seedlings today. Arbor Day was first celebrated in 1872 to recognize the need for continuous planting of trees, preservation of forests and parks.

EARTH DAY Waterways Cruise and environmental Workshops are slated Saturday and May 15, according to the Illinois Pollution Control Board. The cruise on the ship Wendella will start at the dock near the Wrigley Building, Chicago, at 8:45 a.m. For reservation information call Eileen Johnston, 505 Maple Ave., Wilmette, 251-4386.

BOTANICAL historian Joseph Ewan of Tulane University will present a Bicentennial program Monday at the Morton Arboretum in Lisle. His topic is "the Bartrams and the Quiet Revolution on the Schuykill" on a Bartram Garden planted near Philadelphia during the 1700's. The free program will start at 8 p.m. in the Thornhill Building.

THE PROPOSED Rock Island trail will be discussed at a public meeting set Tuesday by the Illinois Dept. of Conservation. The meeting will start at 9:30 p.m. at the Peoria High School auditorium, Peoria. The department had proposed a public trail on an abandoned Rock Island R.R. right of way near Peoria. Private landowners along the proposed route have stretched barbed wire across the trail, said the Prairie Woods chapter of the National Audubon Society, Arlington Heights. The group urges citizens write legislators to support the trail construction.

AN ENVIRONMENTAL noise workshop is slated Wednesday and Thursday in Chicago by the Midwest regional office of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The workshop will start at 8 a.m. both days, at the Sheraton-Chicago hotel, 505 N. Michigan Ave.

GIVE SOMEONE a pat on the back, says the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The EPA announced nominations are open for environmental quality awards, honoring people involved in the grass roots battle against pollution. Previous winners include a small town mayor who banned leaf burning, a citizen activist who collects litter and a television broadcaster. May 15 is the deadline for nomination. For more information, contact the office of public affairs, U.S. EPA, 230 S. Dearborn, Chicago, Ill. 60604.
